

Miners Still Lost, May Be All Right

Rescuers Descend Shaft,
Find Signs Men Are Alive

CALUMET, La. (AP) — Two rescue experts rode a creaky, makeshift elevator 1,200 feet down a murky shaft early today to an area where 21 salt miners had been trapped more than 30 hours. They found a fair supply of oxygen and heard a motor running.

"There is some reason to be encouraged, some to be discouraged," said F. Clayton Tonnemaker, a vice president of Cargill, Inc., owners of the coastal salt mine. "The men did not see anyone, saw no lights, heard no (human) sounds."

Tonnemaker, a former Green Bay Packer linebacker, said the fact the two troubleshooters heard a diesel motor running was encouraging since it could not run unattended more than 30 hours — and the men had been isolated longer than that.

"This leads us to believe that someone started the diesel after the fire," he said.

The rescue specialists said they saw a "red glow" in the distance.

"The red glow means there is a small fire in the area of the mine's fan," Tonnemaker said. "It is a small fire, not much flame. When the next two men go down, if there is no problem, they'll get it out in about 10 minutes."

Fire meant oxygen was in the area. A Cargill spokesman said there was a "pretty fair" supply of oxygen at the bottom of the shaft, enough to sustain life.

Trip Delayed

Another exploratory trip down the fire-blackened mine shaft was delayed while workmen placed a protective cover over the small elevator. On the first trip, one man was slightly injured when a chunk of salt fell, striking his shoulder.

Bulldozers were to be used on return trips in hopes of communicating with the isolated men who could be anywhere in the massive, winding caverns of the mine, perhaps as far away as one mile from the base of the shaft.

The searchers carried their own oxygen supply and wore masks. They found hints of deadly carbon monoxide present in the shaft, but one said it registered only "one-tenth of 1 per cent."

"From what we hear, things may not be too bad," said William L. Meadows of Sturges, Ky., head of one of two special six-man rescue teams flown in for the search.

The two men finally went down shortly before dawn after workmen overcame complications with the newly fabricated "man cage." The elevator affair snagged in the shaft some 300 feet down during a test drop.

Begin Descent

Welders made modifications to the 5-by-5 platform which is gripped by a triangular framework of iron pipe. Edward Holmes, a welder from Kentucky coal mine companies, began the slow, 40-minute journey downward.

"Evidence of the fire is more intense as we go down," was the report at the 520-foot level.

At 690 feet: "There are some burned power cables."

At 758 feet: "It's cold. No heat."

At 793 feet: "The timber is in good shape."

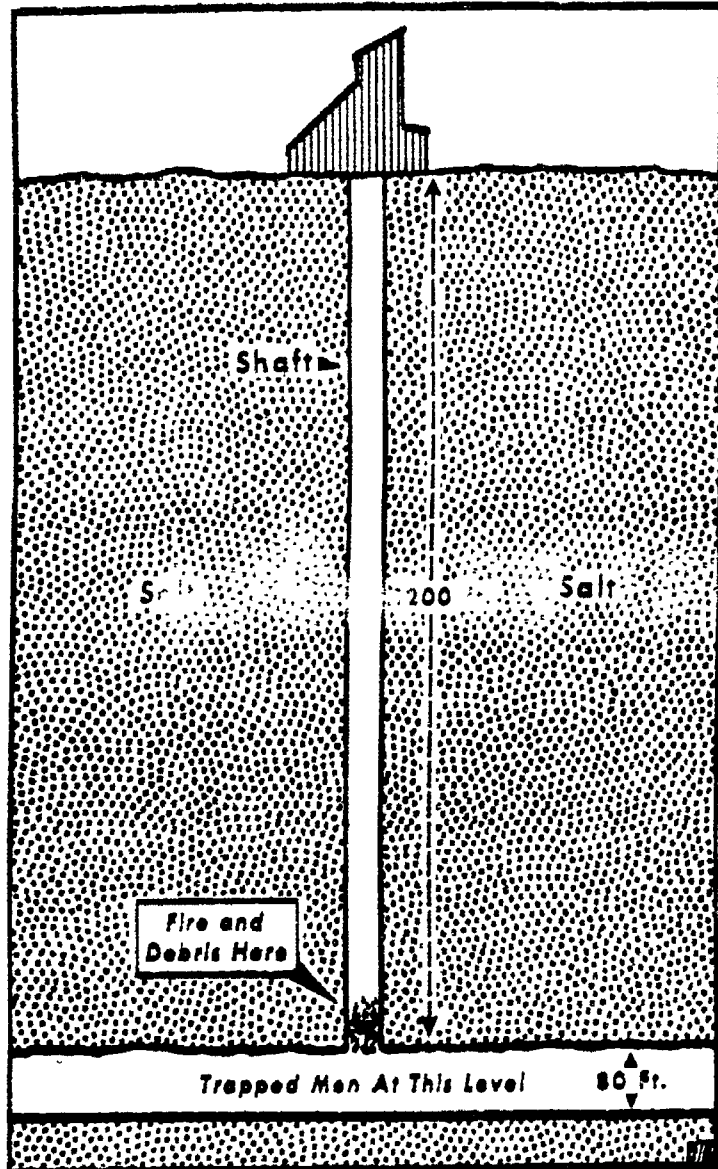

This report brought grins to the faces of weary workmen on the timber-lined shaft as a result of the fire.

Hanoi Sends More Feelers

TOKYO (AP) — North Vietnam, while trying to persuade the United States it has fallen into a military impasse, has been in contact with Switzerland, Sweden and Italy. These contacts and broadcasts from Hanoi, while not spelled out, seem aimed at advancing North Vietnam's ideas for bringing peace.

The Swiss have announced that their ambassador to Peking, Oscar Rossetti, had talks with North Vietnamese Foreign Minister Nguyen Duy Trinh in mid-February and that a Hanoi Foreign Ministry official will soon visit Switzerland.

Earlier the North Vietnamese told of recent meetings with the Italians in Rome and the Swedes in Stockholm.

There was no indication in any of the announcements that there has been a change in the North Vietnam position that the United States unconditionally halt its bombing of the North. The fact that talks opened with the Swiss touched off speculation that a possible new Geneva peace conference is being explored by the two parties. This the Swiss deny.

The North Vietnamese expressed satisfaction over their contacts with the Swedes and the Italians and said their position had been spelled out in meetings with government leaders.

Apology Sent Cambodians For Incidents

U. S. Note Admits Action 'Without Hostile Intent'

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — The United States has apologized for two violations of Cambodian territory by American troops in South Vietnam, the official Cambodian news agency said today.

In a note delivered to the Cambodian Foreign Ministry by the Australian Embassy, the United States said it regretted the incidents on Jan. 18 at Peam Montea and on Feb. 2 at Phnom Den.

"The U.S. government reiterates its regret that in the course of action American personnel did without hostile intent cross into Cambodian territory," the note said about the Peam Montea violation, the agency reported.

At Phnom Penh, the American note said, "Viet Cong troops retreated into the interior of Cambodia." The agency said "all investigation categorically contradicts American accusations" on this point.

Violated Waters

The Cambodian government also accused an American warship of violating its territorial waters, but "the U.S. government rejected the protest, concluding that it was based on erroneous information," the Cambodian agency said.

"We are thus invited to believe that the ship in question was a phantom boat, because as the Pueblo affair has shown us, the American Navy is scrupulous in respect to the limits of territorial waters of other nations," the report added. The date and circumstances of the alleged naval intrusion were not given.

An official source said a new incident had been reported at a Cambodian border post. Last Monday, the source said, a helicopter dropped six American soldiers 1,500 yards inside Cambodia and in an ensuing firefight between provincial guards and the U.S. soldiers, a Cambodian guard was seriously wounded.

Froehlich, Knowles Still Don't Agree

MADISON (AP) — Gov. Warren P. Knowles says Wisconsin has done just about everything it can to make its early presidential primary one of the nation's most important.

"It's as meaningful as we could make it," said Knowles.

The governor's comment came in response to questions about Assembly Speaker Harold Froehlich's statements that the primary might have to be changed.

Froehlich criticized the fact that New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and Sen. Robert Kennedy, D-N.Y., will not be on the April 2 ballot even though they "are No. 2 in their parties."

A member of the bipartisan nominating committee, Froehlich voted last month to have both men listed. The committee refused to place Kennedy's name on the ballot and Rockefeller filed a disclaimer and his name was removed.

"There's a question in my mind whether we should allow anyone to file a disclaimer," Froehlich said in his Appleton law office Wednesday.

"If a man's not a candidate he doesn't have to campaign and it will show up in the vote."

Knowles said he disagreed with the idea that candidates not be allowed to withdraw.

"I don't believe you can stop a man from declining to run," the governor said.

Killed in Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon announced Wednesday that Army S. Sgt. Robert E. Osuski, Milwaukee, has been killed in action in Vietnam.

Twiggy Hopping Mad Codswallop

LONDON (AP) — Twiggy is hopping mad about a report in the Moscow Literary Gazette calling her "a capitalist tool" and the wrong kind of image for modern youth.

"It is a load of old codswallop," she said today.

(Codswallop is an untranslatable Cockney expression, roughly equivalent to baloney or nonsense.)

"I loathe anything like the beatniks and hippies, and am certainly no sort of model for them."

"What I know about Communists sounds just terrible," she snapped. "I've just come back from a tour of Germany and I do know about the Berlin wall and censorship and lack of freedom.

"It's not only a lot of nonsense what that paper said about me but they are being very unfair. In fact, I have a lot of supporters in the East, and I get a lot of fan mail from behind the Iron Curtain. Maybe that's what is bothering them."

Twiggy admits "I am not the world's greatest expert on politics, but I certainly know what happened at Hiroshima was the first atomic bomb and I think war is terrible. They ought to let the leaders fight duels to settle things, since they are the ones who want the fighting."

U.S. War Toll 542 in Week

Navy Pilots Attack Targets In Hanoi, Haiphong Regions

SAIGON (AP) — A near-record 542 Americans were killed in combat in South Vietnam last week, only one less than the highest weekly toll of the war, the U.S. Command announced today.

The toll continued this week, with 24 Americans killed in ground fighting Wednesday and another 48 presumed dead in the crash of a C123 transport shot down five miles from the U.S. Marine combat base at Khe Sanh. But the U.S. Command said its troops killed at least 158 Communists in the clashes Wednesday.

The Viet Cong's bombardment of towns and military posts in South Vietnam tapered off today, with attacks by mortars and rockets on only three points reported.

Coordinated Raids

In the air war, U.S. Navy pilots made coordinated night attacks Wednesday on six targets in the Hanoi-Haiphong area, including a battery plant seven miles south of Hanoi and a transshipment point hit several times before.

Hanoi claimed three U.S. planes were shot down, but there was no report of any losses from the U.S. Command.

The command's weekly report of casualties said 2,191 Americans were wounded last week, a relatively high number although well below the previous week's 2,675. The U.S. death toll was exceeded only by that of the week of Feb. 11-17, at the height of the Communists' lunar new year offensive.

The Americans said 3,849 Communist troops were killed last week, while South Vietnamese headquarters put enemy casualties at 5,681 killed and 827 captured. There was no excuse for the discrepancy.

7-Year Totals

The report brought U.S. casualties in seven years and two months of war in Vietnam to a total of 19,251 killed and 117,335 wounded. Another 1,137 Americans are listed as missing or captured.

Ground fighting was reported Wednesday in the vicinity of Con Thien, just below the demilitarized zone; at Ban Me Thuot, in the central highlands; and along the coastal lowlands in the north, below Da Nang.

U.S. Marines at Con Thien reported killing 81 North Vietnamese three miles northeast of their base and another 10 two miles west of the base. Seventeen Leathernecks were killed and 35 wounded in the two clashes.

Two helicopters flew over the wreckage of the C123 shot down Wednesday with 48 men aboard and reported no sign of life. Marine officers at Khe Sanh said no attempt would be made to recover the bodies because of the thousands of North Vietnamese troops massed close around the base.

In the attacks on North Vietnam Wednesday night, U.S. Navy all-weather intruders from the carriers Enterprise and Kitty Hawk flew low through overcasts to attack:

—The Van Dien battery plant seven miles south of the center of Hanoi. The plant reportedly accounts for about 50 per cent of North Vietnam's battery production. It was last attacked on May 21, nearly a year ago.

—An 11-acre supply area containing 38 warehouses and wharves on the Red River 1.8 miles southeast of the center of Hanoi. It has been bombed several times recently.

—The often-hit Uong Bi electric power plant 15 miles north-northeast of Haiphong.

—The Cam Pha military barracks 44 miles east-northeast of Haiphong.

—The Hai Duong rail yard 23 miles west-northwest of Haiphong.

—The Phu Ly railroad yard 35 miles south of Hanoi.

Czech General Defects to West

VIENNA (AP) — Czechoslovakia announced today it is demanding the extradition of a Czech general who has defected to the United States.

CTK, the official Czechoslovak News Agency, reported: "The Czechoslovak Foreign Ministry announced that on the basis of a valid agreement on mutual extradition of criminals between Czechoslovakia and the United States, steps are being taken through the Czechoslovak Embassy in Washington to secure the extradition of Jan Sejna."

"Maj. Gen. Jan Sejna is wanted in Czechoslovakia for offenses concerning property and misuse of authority of a public official," it said.

Repercussions

Sejna's defection is expected to have far-reaching repercussions in Czechoslovakia.

It may lead to the resignation of the ministers of defense and the interior. High-ranking military officers could also lose their positions.

The committee of Communists in the army held a plenary session to discuss the Sejna case and demanded that "both the minister of defense and of the interior should take a public attitude on the case."

They said: "Those whom it concerns should make self-critical conclusions after they have quit their posts."

It remained to be seen what effect the Sejna case will have on Czechoslovak President Antonin Novotny, the former party chief.

A Prague newspaper has linked him to Sejna. Without naming him, the journal Prace said it was "thinking of the man who placed such confidence in Sejna. How he impressed on us all the need for watchfulness

Would Act If Signatory Is Attacked

GENEVA (AP) — The United States, the Soviet Union and Britain offered today to take joint action under United Nations Security Council auspices to defend any nation threatened with nuclear attack after it signs the proposed treaty to halt the spread of nuclear weapons.

The three nuclear powers put a joint resolution before the 17-nation disarmament committee for submission to the Security Council for approval. It also gives the nuclear powers a basis for protective action even before the 15-nation council acts.

This was spelled out in the final paragraph of the resolution, which said: "The Security Council reaffirms in particular the inherent right, recognized under Article 51 of the United Nations charter, of individual and collective self-defense if an armed attack occurs against a member of the United Nations, until the Security Council has taken measures necessary to maintain international peace and security."

Only Red China

This was designed to get around objections that, since four of the five nuclear powers have a veto in the Security Council, the guarantee offers protection only against attack by Communist China. The other nuclear powers are France, which rejects any restrictions on nuclear development and boycotts the Geneva conference, the United States, the Soviet Union and Britain.

If the resolution goes through, U.S. delegate William C. Foster said, "The United States will declare that any state which commits aggression accompanied by the use of nuclear weapons or which threatens such aggression must be aware that its actions are to be countered effectively by measures to be taken in accordance with the United Nations charter to suppress the aggression or remove the threat of aggression."

Foster said the resolution will establish "a firm political, moral and legal basis for assuring and class-vigilance... will he realize what he must do now?"

This was taken as a hint to Novotny to resign. Novotny, however, was in trouble also on other counts and the Sejna case may just hurry his complete downfall.

Officials in Washington said chances for complying with an extradition request were slim. By longstanding tradition, political refugees are not extradited and Sejna would appear to fall into this category whatever charges are raised against him.

The U.S. State Department announced Wednesday that Sejna has defected to the United States with his son and his son's fiancée.

Sejna, 40, was believed to be the highest-ranking Communist officer to have fled to the West.

State Tops 2 Million Mark in Registration Of Motor Vehicles

Outagamie Is Ninth Ranking County With Total of 52,444

Outagamie County ranked ninth in the state and third among Fox River Valley area counties in motor vehicle registrations during 1967 when the state finally topped the 2 million mark.

This was reported today by James L. Karns, motor vehicle division administrator, who said over $56 million in fees also were received by the state.

Registrations in Outagamie totaled 52,444 compared with 67,318 in Brown County and 56,253 in Winnebago County. Milwaukee County again topped the state with 441,701 while Dane County was second with 130,403, and Brown was fifth.

However, Outagamie was second among Fox Valley area counties in amount of receipts from registrations. It received $1,586,232 during 1967, slightly above Winnebago's $1,580,203, but far below Brown's $2,462,940.

Menominee County, newest in the state, recorded the fewest number of registrants with 545. It only collected $26,220 in registration receipts.

Valley Registrations
Other Fox Valley area counties' number of vehicles registered and registration receipts were Fond du Lac, 39,534 vehicles and $1,161,093 in receipts; Manitowish, 36,767, $958,387; Portage, 20,328, $598,637; Waupaca, 15,437, $486,616; Shawano, 16,901, $452,989, and Calumet, 12,619, $466,512.

Wisconsin's motor vehicle registrations for 1967 — the 63rd year of the program — were 2,049,659. The state topped the million mark in 1947, 42 years after the program was instituted.

Karns noted it took only 26 years to add the second million and indicated that experts predict it will take less time to reach three million.

"For this reason, highway planning, highway safety campaigning and driver improvement are current headaches of government—not to mention the parking problem," Karns said.

The administrator said that of the more than $56 million collected in vehicle fees in Wisconsin during 1967, a portion is returned to the tax district in which each vehicle is kept.

Fees Increased

"And beginning this year, driver licenses fees have been increased, with the added revenue to be spent on high school driver education," Karns said.

Truck fees totaled nearly $25 million and auto fees reached some $27 million although there were only 268,789 trucks registered compared with 1,624,244 car registrations during 1967. There were 747 out-of-state trucks, paying an average of $1,000 each.

Increase motorcycle registrations last year proved bigger than the entire cycle total of just nine months ago. The 12,000 increase brought last year's total to more than 60,000 and fees to some $347,000.

Bus registrations totaled 8,686, including 50 from outside the state, with total fees amounting to $157,535.

The plus two million total registrations is a far cry from the 1,492 in 1905, the initial year. In 1912 when 21,363 cars were registered, it became an annual event.

What Can 200,000 More Troops Do?

No one doubts but that Chief of Staff General Earl Wheeler came back from Vietnam with General Westmoreland's request for more troops although the number is now supposed to be closer to 200,000 than the 100,000 suggested earlier. But the fact that so far nothing has been done to implement the request indicates that perhaps at long last Pentagon officials and the President are reviewing the American military strategy in Vietnam.

Whether the Tet offensive was a defeat or a victory for the enemy, it demonstrated that the Communists had the ability to mount a far greater attack force in far more places than had been believed. The search and destroy missions, with their high rate of casualties, have not cleared the Mekong Delta or any place else of Viet Cong. Now what was thought to be the most secure area, Cam Ranh Bay, has even come under mortar attack. Khe Sanh must be held at all costs because of the prestige value rather than its real strategic importance.

The question that should be asked in Washington now is whether another couple hundred thousand American troops will really make a great deal of difference in Vietnam since the enemy has the ability to match us man for man and increasingly, weapon for weapon. The whole strategy of spreading our troops so thin in Vietnam should come under question. And even if the President cannot or will not admit the vast mistake of our entire military commitment in Vietnam, surely he can recognize the failure of a strategy and order it changed.

As General James Gavin has suggested, pulling American troops back to defend the major cities and the coastal areas would force the Communists to fight, if not on our terms, at least against our greater strength. We could offer to the frightened urban residents the protection their own government troops have been unable or unwilling to provide. The South Vietnamese would have another opportunity to revive the collapsed pacification program. Without the threat of heavy American casualties, the bombing program would gain in flexibility. It seems highly unlikely that such an American strategy could ever mean American military defeat in Vietnam. We could wait out Hanoi's determination not to come to the peace table and although we would probably have to wait a long time, there would no longer be the high rate of casualties for either the American forces or the noncombatants of South Vietnam.

There is no reason at all to believe that 200,000 more troops will be enough to bring about a military defeat of the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong.

The State Judo Tournament

Although Fox Valley Lutheran High School is the smallest of the four high schools in Appleton, the FVL gymnasium will be the site Sunday of the state high school judo championships.

Such an honor is fitting for the school, since it has been a leader in promoting the oriental sport in the area and in the state in past years. FVL was the first high school in Wisconsin to have a varsity judo squad. Under the leadership of faculty member Gerald Mallmann, the squad has been sending contestants to the state meets of the Amateur Athletic Union and the YMCA and hopes to be represented in national competition this year. The school also has furnished several instructors for Appleton YMCA judo classes this year.

Congratulations are in order for the team and the school, whose efforts to promote judo this year will bring state high school championship competition to the Fox Cities Sunday.

Public Safety in Washington

The problem of race relations is perhaps the single most difficult one facing the people of this country, and one that will require the best minds, not to mention the generous purses, of the people to resolve. At best, it may require many years to settle, as the President's commission report has noted so soberly.

Yet it will be difficult for many an average citizen to condone the plain hoodlumism and irresponsibility that is so often confounded with Negro protest, as one of the commentators whose work reaches our desk observed the other day about the strange goings-on at the Pentagon, seat of the national defense establishment, in Washington, D.C.

The problem of molestation of the Pentagon's female employees has become so critical that the headquarters of the nation's war and defense effort is planning to put on shuttle busses to take the ladies to their cars, hire roving patrols, and install emergency lighting in parking facilities.

"We don't doubt this is necessary . . ." our contemporary observed. "What we question is the laxity of law enforcement and the soft handling of hoodlums that has made streets and parking lots unsafe for citizens."

The Pentagon is not alone in its concern about such matters. Other large centers of population have police worried about the same things.

Nor is this a matter of excessive or exaggerated fear, as at least one member of our own staff can testify.

Our staff member was in Washington not many months ago, accompanied by his wife, and took lodgings in a small hotel within a stone's throw of the majestic United States capitol, and across the street from the magnificent, and perhaps profligate, Rayburn office building of the house of representatives.

At about 10 p.m. one evening the couple decided to take a stroll around the beautiful capitol grounds, well lighted as they are, and beautifully planted with flowers and shrubs, some of which are not suited to the climate and other conditions of Wisconsin.

But they had walked scarcely a hundred yards when they encountered a pair of armed District of Columbia policemen, accompanied by a ferocious appearing police dog, on patrol for prowlers and muggers. The memory of that sight, on the grounds of the capitol of the most powerful and prosperous nation on earth, will take a long time to dim, after the polite officers suggested discreetly that the visitors return to the hotel sanctuary and do their sight-seeing during the daylight hours.

Boy Pupils Save School in Fire

Quoted from the Appleton Post for Feb. 20, 1868.

The new and handsome school house in the Third Ward (old Jefferson School on present-day Peabody Manor site) had a narrow escape from being destroyed by fire on Friday last. (Feb. 14, 1869)

A big fire had been made in the furnace and the registers closed, and, although the tin conducting pipes were double with a space between them, the wainscoting in the south room caught fire from contact with the outer pipe.

The scholars were being dismissed when the fire was discovered. The boys broke through the black-board and got at the fire, brought water from the well in the cellar, and thus saved the building.

Had the fire broken out an hour later, the residents of that ward would now be mourning a school house gone.

As the pipes are to be changed, the damage will probably be $150. Meanwhile there is a vacation until the repairs are completed.

25 YEARS AGO

Reports from Allied Headquarters in Australia indicated an immense victory in the Bismarck Sea which dislocated the entire Japanese campaign. An entire convoy of 22 ships was wiped out and men on their way to the battlefields of New Guinea killed by airmen of the Southwest Pacific command.

Reports on Women in War were given by members of the Appleton High School Commercial Club. Speakers were Audrey Funk and Yvonne DeDecker. Jean Oswalt was appointed chairman of the war work committee for the Junior Red Cross; members were making an afghan.

"Long May it Wave," refer-

Leadership of Republican Party Is Up for Grabs; Time Is Crucial

BY JOSEPH KRAFT

WASHINGTON — For weeks everybody in town has been expecting Senator Everett Dirksen of Illinois to pull a rabbit from his hat in imposing closure of this year's civil rights bill. Well, closure has been imposed, but it develops that Senator Dirksen has no rabbit and maybe no hat.

Kraft

Senator Dirksen's disappointing performance, moreover, explains why nobody knows which way the Republican Party will go in the Presidential race. For the central fact is that the Republicans are approaching a basic turning point just at a time when the brokers required to make the transition are being extinguished.

The basic transition, as everybody knows, is away from a party based on rural interests and small town values toward a party that caters more to the burgeoning suburbs. In line with that change, the party has been slowly modifying its policy stance to accommodate the interests of the cities and suburbs in expanded federal services. There has also come a less fundamentalist view on such matters as relations with the Communist world and the race issue.

CRITICAL ISSUE

As a demonstration of continuing Republican progress, the treatment accorded civil rights legislation in the Senate this year was of critical importance. To begin with, there is the Republican opportunity for a show of enlightenment against the Democrats on the sensitive issue of race.

Moreover, because the Southern Democrats usually threaten a filibuster on civil rights legislation, there arises the prospect of a cloture vote cutting off debate. And that vote, of course, symbolizes the abandonment by the Senators of the small rural states of their right of veto over the will of the large populations concentrated in the urban and suburban centers of the big states.

The key to cloture, everybody supposed, was Senator Dirksen. A small-town Midwesterner, the Minority Leader personifies all the qualities of the old party. He was known to be flexible. He was believed to have in his pocket about eight other Midwesterners, relatively indifferent on the merits of the race issue, and ready to follow his lead on a cloture vote.

Accordingly, the Republican moderates, led by Senator Thurston Morton of Kentucky, moved to make a big show on an open housing amendment on the civil rights bill, with an eye toward winning Senator Dirksen's support for cloture. On two votes they lost Dirksen and the two-thirds majority necessary for cloture. But they did get, over Dirksen's head, a majority of the Senate Republicans.

Then last week, Dirksen announced a dramatic switch. He was going to make some amendments, and support cloture. But on the showdown Monday, he could not deliver the goods.

To be sure, the Senator from Illinois and his son-in-law, Senator Howard Baker of Tennessee, did cross the line and vote for cloture. But six other Republicans thought to be aligned with Dirksen went their own way.

BLOC FELL APART

Carl Curtis of Nebraska, Roman Hruska of Nebraska, Bourke Hickenlooper of Iowa, Karl Mundt of South Dakota, George Murphy of California, and John Williams of Delaware all voted against cloture. With that vote it became plain that cloture and civil rights no longer depended on Dirksen. The Dirksen bloc had fallen apart.

But the waning of Dirksen's control is only the latest event in a string of setbacks for Republican movers and shakers. Senator Morton, the prime political orchestrator among the Senate moderates, announced that he would not seek re-election two weeks ago.

Former President Eisenhower long ago ceased to sway the views of active Republicans. The Republican Governors, as their behavior here last week indicated, are at sixes and sevens on the Presidential nomination. So are the top House Republicans.

The permanent leadership of the Republican Party, the Republican Establishment as David Broder and Stephen Hess call it in their excellent new book, is up for grabs. To fill the void there is needed a sorting-out process — a process that will go on in the next few weeks and months, and maybe down to the wire at the convention in Miami. But until that sorting-out process is done, until a new Republican Establishment asserts itself, it will not be possible even to make intelligent guesses about the Republican nominee for President.

Candidate's Name Is Important Element To Political Success

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — Predictably, there has been some mildly critical response to the suggestion made here recently that the politician is fortunate who has a name that is familiar to the voter through previous exposure of relatives or others of the same name or whose name suggests plainly association with the major ethnic groups in the electorate.

Wyngaard

A few correspondents have suggested that the idea reflected unfavorably upon the alertness and the intelligence of the voters of Wisconsin. That is as it may be, but it was not intended. These are among the realities of politics, here and elsewhere. Indeed, name value is perhaps less important here than in some of the less enlightened parts of the country, and notably the city of New York where the statemakers pay more attention to names, national origin, race and religious affiliation than perhaps anywhere in this country.

One of the most respected editors in this state some years ago told me of his intense interest in a local election for a judgeship which through a twist of circumstance involved two eminently qualified candidates, but who also represented the two most numerous nationality strains in the jurisdiction.

CALCULATED NAME VALUE

A justice of the State Supreme Court some years ago made a little hobby out of studying the election returns over a long period and calculating the value of a name connoting his own national origin, which was Irish. His conclusions were surprising to the young and uninitiated reporter this correspondent then was.

One of the most successful and prominent politicians in this state has a Scandinavian name that cannot be mistaken. There would be no purpose here in naming him. The issue is not one of personalities, but of voting habits and inclinations.

This man of Norwegian ancestry is keenly aware of the fortunate accident of his inheritance with respect to his chosen career of professional politics, but he also manages in many of his public appearances to remind audiences that his mother's name was O'Brien. Another prominent man, in another party, bears a name that is plainly of English origin, and in the sophisticated circles of his party would be known as a WASP, namely, white, Anglo-Saxon, and Protestant. But he also finds the opportunity, when it seems to be useful or appropriate, to tell a story about his mother, whose name was Dineen. And so it goes.

SOME CHANGE NAMES

There are men on the Wisconsin stage whose names have obviously been anglicized, or otherwise modified, to make their spelling less difficult, and to make them the more easily remembered and pronounced, or to lessen the suggestion that their bearers belong to small and powerless ethnic elements of the electorate.

There are men fortunate enough to bear names that ring pleasantly in the ear — such as Goodland. Last spring hundreds of lawyers were astonished when a respected chief justice of the State Supreme Court was turned out of office without any readily discernible issue or reason. But there were many professional politicians who were justified in guessing that he might have fared better if the man who challenged his election had been named Polakowski, rather than Hansen.

All of which is not to reflect critically upon the electorate. Anybody who studies the history of Wisconsin politics is forced to conclude that an alert, responsive and responsible electorate has ruled here over the years. Twenty-eight years ago this fall, in an illustration that old times won't easily forget, the discernment of the Wisconsin voters was usefully illustrated when it chose candidates of three parties for the high offices of U.S. senator, governor, and president.

CITES GRANDFATHER'S NAME

This correspondent would be the last man in the world to deny the disadvantages, even outside politics, of a name that is difficult to spell, to pronounce, to remember, or that is comparatively unfamiliar because few persons hear it. During my own life I have become accustomed to being called Wingert, or Weingarten, or other approximations of my legal name. But suppose these dispatches were signed Johannes van den Wijngaard, which was the name of my immigrant grandfather and originally intended to be borne also by his grandson?

U.S. Troop Levels Studied for Senate

Demands for Reserve Call-Up Could be Spurred by Findings

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators have quickly launched a study of U. S. troop levels in Korea and at home to see if the Vietnam war has drained reserve strength below safe levels.

The study by aides of the Senate preparedness subcommittee could provide new fuel for congressional demands that ground Reservists and National Guardsmen be mobilized to fill gaps caused by continuing increases in Vietnam troop strengths.

It comes against the background of new talk that military leaders in Vietnam want 100,000 more fighting men.

Sources said subcommittee aides have been in the Far East about a week and are expected to return to Washington next week.

Korean Force

Their emphasis, the sources said, is on Korea, where the United States has some 50,000 ground troops. Most are concen-

Orangeburg Students Stir Commotion

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Several Negro students from South Carolina State College in Orangeburg were arrested today after about 150 came to the state Capitol while the Legislature was in session and a commotion erupted.

At least six students were brought out of the building by agents of the State Law Enforcement Division.

They were admitted to the galleries of the House and Senate but Lt. Gov. John West, president of the Senate, ruled them out of order when screams and shouts were heard. He warned then they would be arrested if the commotion continued.

About 75 of the students went to the foyer of Gov. Robert McNair's office on the first floor of the Capitol and sat down on the carpet. They said they wanted to present a list of grievances to the governor.

Special Powers Denied

Thieu Gets Another Rebuff

By BARRY KRAMER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu's request for additional special powers in the face of the Communist offensive was turned down today by the South Vietnamese Senate.

The upper house overwhelmingly rejected his request for one year of special powers in economy and finance, repeating a similar action by the house of representatives last Friday.

The vote of the 60-member Senate was 40 against, three for, one abstention, and the others absent.

The legislative rejection in both cases was on constitutional grounds, a fear that the president was trying to take too much power away from the two houses. Thieu already had declared martial law, under which his government has detained about 30 members of the opposition, declared accelerated mobi-

Stubborn Miss Stops Traffic

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Downtown traffic was tied up for an estimated 35 minutes Wednesday when a 19-year-old girl refused to back her car to allow a semitrailer truck to complete a turn.

Patrolman Herbert D. Good said that after 15 minutes of verbal persuasion failed, he wrote a ticket charging the driver of the car, Shari Rue Walker of Des Moines, with interfering with the flow of traffic.

She refused to sign the ticket. Good warned her she might go to jail. She still refused to sign. Good called for help. Two other officers failed to persuade her to sign.

Miss Walker was taken to municipal court, where she drew a five-day jail sentence. A lawyer arranged her release after about five hours, and said he would try to have the charge expunged from the records.

Silence Until Convention

Johnson Wants to Maintain Noncandidate Appearance

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has charted a political course calculated to preserve his status as noncandidate for re-election right up to the eve of the Democratic convention in August.

bers are good."

Then, at 1,000 feet: "There appears to be a motor running down here."

The surface warned: "Dilford, you don't have a deflector for diesel fumes. You had better come on up."

Keep Going

Yet, the two kept going. Just past the 1,100-foot mark, this report: "I am able to see the bottom of the mine."

At 1,166 feet: "I am 40 to 50 feet above the water."

To douse the fire, pumps dumped thousands of gallons of water down the circular shaft.

"I still hear a motor running," was heard from 1,185 feet down.

The rescuers reported that once on the bottom they could feel some air movement, obviously from a fan. And, about the time they started up, they saw the "red glow" in the distant darkness.

The vertical shaft, some 16 feet in diameter, extends down into the huge salt dome for 1,200 feet. It is the only entrance to the 80-foot high tunnels branching off at various depths.

Fire erupted in the shaft at midnight Tuesday, cutting communication cables and ruining the elevator hoist as the 21 men were at the deepest level doing maintenance work.

Lacked Equipment

Rescue work at the isolated Cargill, Inc., mine—located on Belle Isle, surrounded by water and swamp—was stymied for 24 hours by lack of equipment.

The mine rescue teams and their specialized gear were flown from Madisonville, Ky. Making the last lap by helicopter, they arrived at about midnight Wednesday.

equal time to Democratic opponent Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., and to the Republicans.

In his capacity as commander in chief, the President also can use Air Force One and attendant planes to move around the country popping in unexpectedly on military bases and captive audiences at dinners and conventions in the immediate area of the bases.

The White House denies Johnson has mapped any such firm political plans.

"While there surely will be a lot of speculation and interpretation of the President's plans," said an aide, "I know that there have been no decisions at all on what the President may or may not do in the future."

More practically, Johnson as a noncandidate can travel and speak as he pleases without radio and television having to give the security of non-nuclear countries."

Same Declarations

Soviet delegate Alexei A. Roshchin and British delegate Ivor Porter said their governments would make the same declaration of intention.

The United States, Britain and Russia have been working on the problem for several months. Informed sources said agreement was hammered out more than a week ago, but the Soviet delegation had to await approval from Moscow.

This was received late Wednesday, reportedly after Russia received approval from its Warsaw Pact allies at their Sofia conference.

The agreement was expected to produce a furious outburst from Peking. India has led those demanding guarantees against nuclear attack if it signed the treaty to halt the spread of nuclear weapons, and China is the only nation from which it fears nuclear aggression.

ADA Endorses Compulsory Contributions for Promotion

Ask Market Order to Collect Funds From All Milk Producers

Post-Crescent News Service
GREEN BAY — The American Dairy Association of Wisconsin here Wednesday approved a plan for compulsory support of promotion and research programs.
 A resolution endorsing a state marketing order to collect funds from all milk producers was adopted by the delegates at their annual convention without a dissenting vote.
 Hearings and a referendum are required before a marketing order can be put into effect.
Start By September
 Although the mechanics are the responsibility of the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, it was estimated that an order could be instituted by Oct. 1 and possibly as early as Sept. 1.
 The plan had been discussed in detail at the ADA's district meetings about a month ago. Charles Brace, Lone Rock dairyman and a former national fieldman for the Holstein-Friesian Association, told the convention, "It is most unfortunate that so few of our Wisconsin dairymen are promoting their product. The only way we can get the money we should have to make a real impact is through this order."

 In the past, the ADA habitually shied away from suggestions that it should come out for mandatory support of research and development.
Low Yield
 Although it reached about 45 per cent at one time, the ADA's voluntary checkoff for the past several years has been yielding only about 30 per cent of its potential. Checkoff receipts in Wisconsin last year came to $1,054,102.
 Under the approved plan assessments for the first three years would continue at the ADA's present rate of 2 cents per hundred pounds of milk sold. A maximum of 1 per cent of gross sales was stipulated for succeeding years, although state law permits up to 2 per cent.
 It was carefully explained to the ADA delegates that the democratic process would not be compromised in a marketing order.

Thilmany Earnings, Sales Down in 1967

All Directors, Officers Re-Elected At Annual Meeting

KAUKAUNA — Thilmany Pulp and Paper Company sales and earnings dipped last year after setting all-time highs in 1966, stockholders learned at the 67th annual meeting Wednesday.
 The 1967 sales totaled $45,829,529 compared with $48,554,000 during 1966 while net earnings last year were $2,510,490 compared with $3,714,000 the year before.
 J.T. Thomas, president, said the general downturn of business started early in the second quarter of 1967 and continued. However, he explained the earnings in 1967 do not include taking the investment tax credit, which generally is done by most paper industry companies.
 Re-elected to the board of directors were L. R. Graef, marketing vice president; Fred Herbozheimer Jr., manufacturing vice president; M. L. Downs, vice president and technical director; R. V. Allen, treasurer and controller; and E. H. Jennings, G. E. McCorsion, C. R. Seaborne, R. E. Wertheimer and J. C. Geilfuss.
Up Production
 Thomas said that 1968 and 1969 will be years of building for future new products and increased production capacity. This will be done by rebuilding three paper machines and adding the new No. 14 paper machine, which is scheduled for late 1969. Thomas pointed out the 1968 business climate is difficult to determine because of national and international problems.
 The board of directors met after the stockholders meeting when all company officers were re-elected, including P. H. West, vice president of pulp and paper production; L. A. Schiedermayer, vice president of administration; and W. W. Owens, assistant secretary and assistant treasurer.

File Petition
 "Every dairy farmer will have a chance to express himself," reminded Robert A. Bird, Brownsville, Wisconsin ADA president.
 The first step will be filing a petition with Donald N. McDowell, secretary of the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture. There were enough dairy herd owners present Wednesday to produce 93 of the required 100 signatures.
 Farmers on the brucellosis ring test list will be notified of their opportunity to register for voting, with the deadline probably about June 1. McDowell also will schedule hearings in April to determine if there is sufficient interest to merit calling a referendum.
 If McDowell decides to hold a referendum, only registered farmers will be permitted to vote. Participation by 51 per cent of those registered will make the referendum official. The marketing order will be enacted if two-thirds of the voters, representing at least 51 per cent of the registered milk volume, express approval.
Bloc Vote
 Cooperatives will be permitted to bloc vote their memberships, but individual members may request separate ballots.
 Francis Hough, Wisconsin Department of Agriculture marketing specialist, stressed the importance of getting a large registration of dairy farmers.
 "Lack of a good sign-up might indicate apathy, and could kill the whole idea," he told the convention.
 The ADA plan provides for an advisory board of 13 members, one from each of its districts. Board members would have to be milk producers and would be

Tipsy Driver Fined $200

30-Day Jail Term Imposed for Past Driving Record

WAUPACA — Elmer W. Howe, 53, route 2, Weyauwega, pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while under the influence of intoxicants, Wednesday, when he appeared in Municipal Justice Court and was fined $200 and costs or 90 days in jail. The first 30 days of the sentence were ordered to be mandatory by Justice George Whalen, because of Howe's past driving record.
 Howe was arrested at about 2:15 p.m., Tuesday, after he ran his car into the ditch on State 54, near the eastern City limits of Waupaca. Given a breathalyzer test, Howe tested .21. A reading of .15 is evidence of intoxication.
 Justice Whalen ordered that Howe's drivers license be revoked for one year.

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND
By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

CAN YOU REACH THE MIND THROUGH THE BODY?
TRUE ☐ FALSE ☐

Yes. One good illustration is in the exercises that apparently help children, with learning difficulties, to grow mentally. Dr. Glenn Doman, a physio-therapist, and Dr. Carl Delacato, a psychologist, have developed a system of highly patterned exercises including crawling and creeping that help a child, through a step-by-step development of his nervous system. Some children have difficulty establishing dominance in the organization of the brain in which one side or the other is preferred. These children have difficulties in learning that can be remedied in part by putting their bodies through the exercises, they say.

Is it natural to want to own property?
Yes — No —
Yes, it is for most people. Even little children start collecting things and cherishing their personal belongings. As men and women get established, they take pleasure in having their own things with them. The pressure on families to own their own homes is very great, especially nowadays. Only the rare person can renounce the call of ownership.

War Building Pressure For New Draft System

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Mounting American casualties in Vietnam and the prospect that more young men will be sent there are building pressures for changes in the draft system.

Anytime there are more youths of draft age than the military needs, the choice of who goes and who stays home is hard to make, and the present system appears to satisfy no one.

More than a year ago the Defense Department said the policy of drafting the oldest registrants first "was not desirable from any standpoint." Yet it continues.

Graduate Deferments
The president of Harvard recently told Congress the new regulation wiping out deferments for graduate students was bad for the Army, the colleges and the nation.

President Johnson has asked that national standards be applied for draft classifications and Congress gave him authority to issue them. But the 4,089 local draft boards still set their own standards and they can vary from county to county.

There is blame enough for everyone in the government for the failure to draw up and implement a system as fair as can be devised, but for Congress the failure has been most abject. It had the chance last year to carry out a comprehensive revision of the law and threw the opportunity away.

View Prevails
A presidential commission had spent a year drafting recommendations and Johnson asked that most of them be enacted. But the House Armed Services Committee decreed that no great changes were needed and its view prevailed.

In an exhibition of legislation-by-default, the House rubber-stamped the committee's bill at a session begun late in the day and chopped off peremptorily so members could depart on a long Memorial Day weekend—some on a junket to Paris.

The House had sat until 2 a.m. the night before working on a controversial school bill. The members were tired and crotchety when the draft bill came up and cries of "Vote! Vote!" were heard within an hour.

Debate Limited
Sensing his colleagues' mood, Chairman L. Mendell Rivers, D-S.C., of the Armed Services Committee put through a debate-limiting motion. It left members with less than a minute to explain major amendments intended to carry out some of the commission's recommendations. All were shouted down.

"We're asking young men to give up two years of their lives," said one unhappy member, "and we won't even give two days of our time to consider this."

The bill resulting from that session will be the law of the land until June 30, 1971, unless the House or Senate Armed Services Committees can be persuaded to reopen the matter.

Such persuasion is now being attempted, particularly in the Senate, where Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., recently offered a complete overhaul of the law, trying again to put in many of the provisions recommended by last year's commission.

Johnson could institute many of the recommended changes by executive order but he has chosen not to do so. Supporters of the change hope the need for expanded draft calls to meet Vietnam requirements will prompt the President to act.

Utility Crew Accepts Pact 7 Per Cent Pay Increase Included At Kaukauna

KAUKAUNA — Employees of the Electric and Water Utility will receive a 7 per cent across-the-board pay increase under terms of a new one-year contract ratified this week.

Workers, members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Local 232, accepted the contract after several months of negotiations.

Aside from the pay hike, which is retroactive to Nov. 1, 1967, the workers won increased fringe benefits including having the utility pay 75 per cent of the hospitalization insurance premium. Under the old contract, the utility paid 56 per cent of the premium.

WSU-O Journalism Major Gets Committee Approval

MADISON — Journalism majors for Wisconsin State Universities at Oshkosh and Whitefish Bay were approved by a subcommittee of the state Coordinating Committee for Higher Education meeting here yesterday.

Requests for journalism majors from LaCrosse and Superior were refused following a discussion on the needs for journalists and whether special classes might not meet the demands instead of major courses.

The subcommittee report was prepared by Dr. William White, an associate director of the CCHE. It was noted that journalism majors now are offered at the Universities of Wisconsin at Madison and Milwaukee and at the state universities at Eau Claire and River Falls.

The CCHE staff report noted that some authorities have claimed a need for many more journalists nationally in the near future, but noted that "the definition of 'journalist' and the basis for making the estimate are questionable."

The staff argues that future needs for newsmen in the state will be centered in metropolitan areas, and most reporters head for those areas now upon leaving school. Most jobs for young journalists appear to be replacement positions, they said.

Preparation of high school journalism teachers can be handled through the use of minors in journalism, the staff contended. Minors are available at WSU-Platteville and at Stout State University.

The subcommittee concurred with the staff recommendations which will be presented to the full CCHE on March 14 for final action.

Tests Sought For Proposed Lake Project

14-Acre Pond in Park Plan for Winnebago County

Sanitary water tests have been requested for a man-made lake being considered in a Winnebago County park development plan.

The application by the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission has been submitted to the Division of Health, State Department of Health and Social Services.

Approximately 14 acres in area, the lake would be developed as part of a 250-acre park north of Oshkosh and adjacent to the county hospital. The land has been transferred for park use and a feasibility study of the first development stage has been approved by the county board. It is being reviewed by the regional planning commission.

Tests Required
Favorable water purity tests are required to qualify counties for Land and Water Conservation (LAWCON) funds for park land acquisition and development.

Charles Hervey Jr., regional planning commission chief park planner, said he has received acknowledgement for a similar survey of the proposed four-acre lake in the northwest end of Outagamie County's Plamann Park, located north of Appleton.

Hervey said that park projects also are progressing in other communities and counties, including a 40-acre Shawano County Park. The Shawano preliminary plans, prepared by the regional planning commission, will be presented for approval to the county board next week.

The regional planning commission also is expanding Shawano's outdoor recreation plans for Voelz and Hayman parks, located in southwest Shawano County.

Other Plans
Other preliminary park plans completed include a 47½-acre expansion of the Seymour community lake park, which city officials are studying.

The Winneconne park project, financed by a $100,000 estate grant from an Omro banker, includes a 2 to 3-acre lake which reportedly is 90 per cent complete. Hervey said his staff is preparing plans for developing the remainder of the park, in the check to Secretary of the conjunction with Dorobue and Treasury Henry H. Fowler, Zei Associates, a Sheboygan engineering firm.

All Cents Erased From National Debt by Class

GLOVERSVILLE, N.Y., (AP) — A history class at Gloversville High School has sent the federal government a check for 57 cents toward the national debt.

Teacher Joseph J. Check had told his 29 pupils the debt was $352,546,363.116.57. A pupil, Garfield Zeiler, suggested a collection to make the amount a whole number. In a letter with the remainder of the park, in the check to Secretary of the conjunction with Dorobue and Treasury Henry H. Fowler, Zei Associates, a Sheboygan engineering firm.

U.S. Hospital Corpsmen dash from a bunker at the airstrip at Khe Sanh, carrying a wounded Marine to a waiting evacuation helicopter. The Communists have the base airstrip zeroed in, compelling aircraft to get in and out quickly. (AP Wirephoto)

Particularly Good Day

Nothing Typical About Khe Sanh

By PETER ARNETT
Associated Press Writer

KHE SANH, Vietnam (AP)—How does a typical day go at Khe Sanh? There is little typical about any day, but here's a look at one 24-hour period that turned out better than a lot of Marines could hope.

Start, arbitrarily, with a flash message to the embattled combat base from the 3rd Marine Division headquarters at coastal Phu Bai. Unit commanders were told to pass on the word.

"We will be hit with heavy enemy artillery fire at 9 p.m.," Lt. (j.g.) Martin J. Kux told his Seabee detachment. "This will be followed by a heavy ground attack. You must take this seriously. This is the first time we have received a flash of this nature."

7 to 1
The young Seabees pulled on their helmets and flak vests and crouched down. Two hours to wait.

A Seabee voice spoke up. "There's 6,000 of us, 40,000 of them. Let's kill our seven each and go back to bed."

Another voice said, "I hope they knock out the front-end loader and the forklift. I'm tired of working those machines."

Then the lieutenant telephoned that the base had gone on red alert, meaning that the enemy troops were massing.

The Seabees fell silent.

Beyond the thinly sandbagged trench lines of the Khe Sanh perimeter, red and white lights bobbed down a ridgeline.

"God, they don't even care about being seen," a Seabee sentry said.

Midnight Attack
Mortar rounds splashed out into the ridge, but the lights continued meandering into a valley, 500 yards from the Southern perimeter.

The attack came at midnight, not at 9 p.m., and it was by a sapper battalion, not the two infantry divisions known to be lurking in the gray-green Khe Sanh hills.

In his red dirt trench on knoll at the southern perimeter, Capt. Walter Gunn, from Green Brier, Tenn., a lantern-jawed, rangy U.S. adviser, clung to the earth as his exposed position came under a rain of mortar and rocket fire.

The Vietnamese rangers Gunn advises were grafted onto U.S. Marine lines one month ago. The communists had tunneled to within 50 yards of their perimeter wire during weeks of fog and rain.

Main Attack
The sappers lashed into the Vietnamese positions in the main attack.

Flares lit the two-square-mile combat base that sits astride a ridge. The Seabees looked for the star-cluster flare that would signify that enemy troops had broken through the perimeter and were inside.

Rockets flying red tails whirled into the base. A direct mortar hit hardly scarred the six-foot-deep rock roof on the Seabee bunker. A direct artillery hit in Marine lines at the northwest corner killed five Marines.

The red alert continued until 2 a.m. The Vietnamese rangers were slugging it out, bullet for bullet, with the attacking sappers, but no major ground attack seemed imminent.

Mass Relief
The whole base seemed to relax with a collective sigh. Dawn brought the whomp of a Communist 130mm howitzer battery that has been traced to mountains in Laos 10 miles to the west. The whomp of the shell firing gives men a split second to duck; mortars arrive unannounced.

Capt. Gunn surveyed the triumphant smiles of the acting Ranger battalion commander, Lt. Truong Thuoc, who had received a report that 70 Communist bodies were scattered over the small ridge outside the wire. Only a handful of rangers were hurt.

"Seventy?" asked Capt. Gunn skeptically. The Vietnamese lieutenant smiled. "If you don't believe us, captain, go out and check for yourself."

No Americans are allowed outside the Khe Sanh wire because it is too dangerous. "I believe you, trung uy (lieutenant)," Gunn observed.

Seriously Wounded
Three rangers stood up from their bunkers and greeted the morning with a stretch. An automatic weapon cracked out from the near ridge. Two fell, seriously wounded.

"That's the trouble with this place, stand up and you get blown away," Gunn muttered, rubbing his chin stubble.

An Air Force C130 flew over the base to drop supplies. Mortars exploded, ground fire cracked around it. Cargo parachutes fluttered out. The plane was safe.

The Khe Sanh base commander, Col. David E. Lownds, held his 11 a.m. briefing for a hand-out of newsmen.

"Well, last night was not their best effort," he said of the Communist attack. "I don't believe we will get off that easy."

Transport Escapes
A C123 transport moved up the runway with a burst of speed, gripped at the sky, then twisted to the south and smashed into a row of bunkers. Those aboard escaped, but the mortar that had knocked the plane from its course slapped in three more rounds, injuring several men.

A Marine officer watched the blazing plane and commented: "That's half a million dollars down the drain. But we saved everyone aboard, the first time we have done that in a dozen wrecks. This is fine."

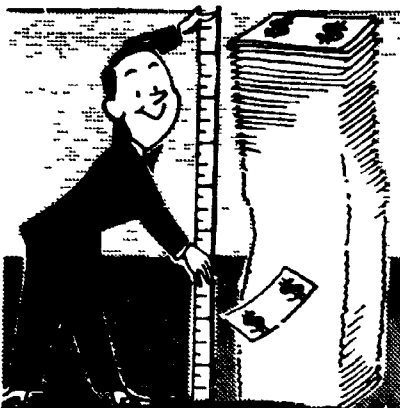

Night came back to Khe Sanh, erasing the shell-pocked roads, the splintered buildings, the carcasses of helicopters, planes and jeeps.

In the deeper bunkers, where no natural light penetrates, night and day have no meaning. The meaning down there is the thump of the incoming shells and the continuing wonder if the stout roofs can take a direct hit.

In one such bunker Seabee Lt. Kux, who is from Chandaigua, N.Y., informed his men that another red alert had been posted, that attack could be imminent.

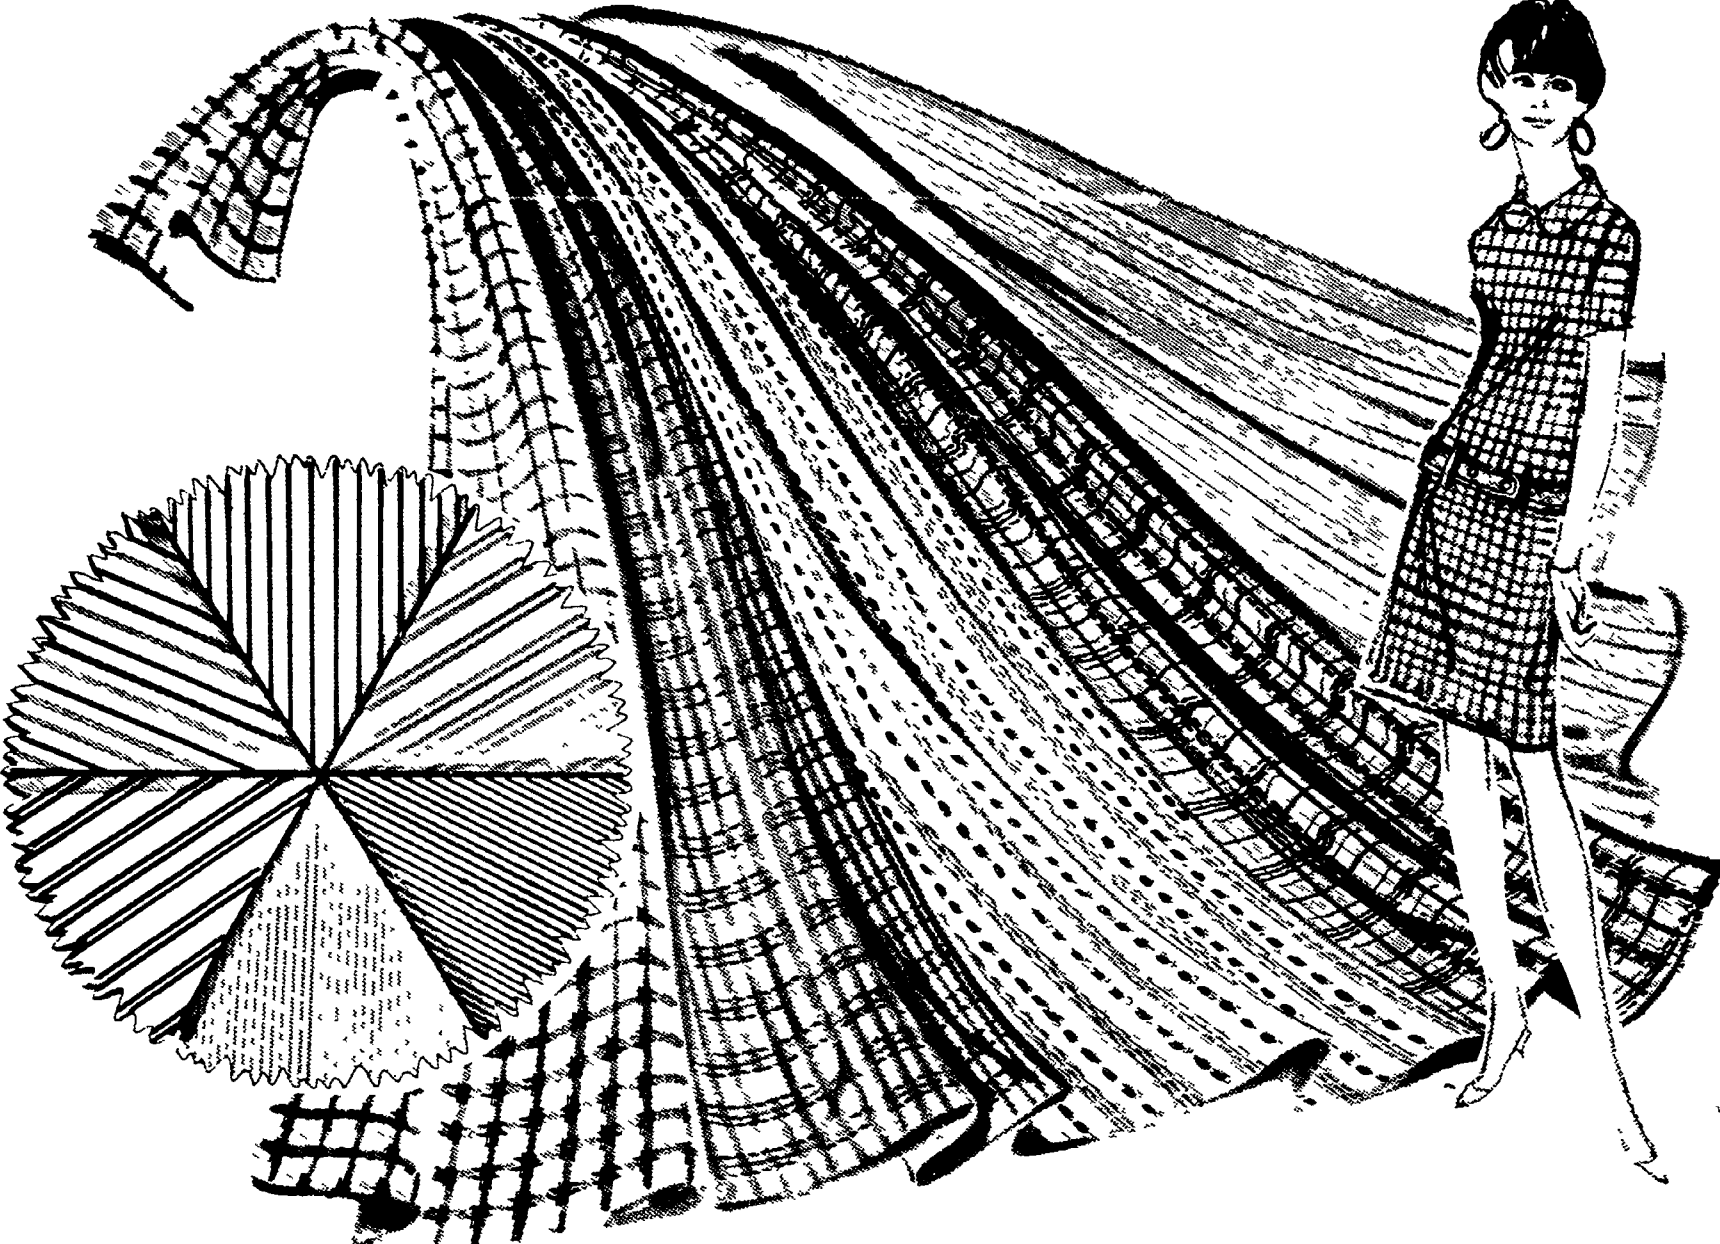

"Just cross your fingers," Kux said, grinning. "We survived today, today was a very good day. Let's hope tomorrow is as good, no worse."

There's No Better Way to dress a little party-goer than in flounces of ruffles. The official "World's Little Miss" dress for Texas Fashion Creators' showings was designed by Martha's Miniatures of Diaper Jeans in polyester and cotton dimity voile. The skirt is a full 90 inches and 62 yards of ruffles. adorn the dress.

Ruffled Little Girls Will be Girls

Fashions With Historical Flavor

By Jackie Krug

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. — In their showings of spring and summer fashions here this week, designers of the Texas

Post-Crescent Fashion Editor Jackie Krug returned today from San Antonio, Tex., where she covered the Texas Fashion Creators' Association 18th annual Press Week showing of spring and summer fashions.

Fashion Creators' Association have drawn from area influences to make their points for softness and femininity. They have not overlooked the young miss in their presentation or in their themes. Little girls will go to parties this season in ruffs of ruffles and lace. Even lacy petticoats will peek from beneath soft little dresses.

For the more active times in her days this spring and summer, the young miss will shed ruffles for pleats and other swingy skirts and comfortable skimmers, all still retaining the little girl look.

Toddlers will favor bloomers, perhaps with lace or ruffle edging, teamed with softly gathered toppers. Tops may be sleeveless for warmer days, or may have small capped sleeves repeating the edging motif for cooler times.

Fashionable California Nuns Center of Hot Controversy

BY GENE HANDSAKER Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — They wear dresses. Some get permanent waves. They use their real names and sleep as late as they wish. So what's unusual?

The difference is that these are nuns—members of the schoolteaching Sisters of the Immaculate Heart of Mary. And they're involved in one of the hottest controversies sizzling anywhere in Roman Catholicism: ferment over "renewal."

The sisters say the way they dress, the hours they keep and other changes are to update their 97-year-old order and help it serve the modern world.

Cardinal McIntyre Disapproves But across town in the chancery office, 81-year-old James Francis Cardinal McIntyre, archbishop of Los Angeles, disapproves. He is known both as a parish builder and as a firm traditionalist.

In resolutions and letters to newspapers, many laymen, Franciscans, Jesuits and others heatedly take sides.

In the balance is whether most of 200 Immaculate Heart sisters will return next fall to their teaching posts in 36 parochial schools of the Los Angeles archdiocese.

Sisters May be Fired As matters stand at an impasse—they well may not,

Anne Baxter Plans Divorce Resumes Career

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Her attorney says actress Anne Baxter has filed for divorce from her Australian rancher-husband B. Randolph Galt.

Attorney Stanley Geis said Tuesday that conferences regarding the settlement were proceeding smoothly. The suit charging extreme cruelty was filed last Thursday.

Miss Baxter, now 44, spent seven years as an Australian farm wife on Galt's 34,000-acre cattle farm after their marriage in Honolulu on Feb. 13, 1960.

They separated when she returned to Hollywood to resume her acting career. At the time she was quoted as saying: "I gave up my career because I was very much in love. My husband didn't want me to give it up. I think he was wiser than I was."

The couple has three children, Katrina, 16, Miss Baxter's daughter by the late actor John Hodiak; Melissa, 6, and Maginel, 5.

considering themselves fired by Cardinal McIntyre. Some parochial school doors could close and hundreds of Catholic youngsters be thrown into public schools.

What's the nub of the hassle?

For one thing, dress. No longer in ankle-length, dark blue habits with starched white headgear and black veils, sisters stroll the campus of Immaculate Heart College in dresses so contemporary you can't tell nuns from students or visiting mothers.

The college, its 14 beautifully landscaped, tranquil acres sloping steeply into the Hollywood Hills, is a girls' liberal arts school with an enrollment of 1,110. Its convent is mother house or headquarters for the Immaculate Heart order, most of whose 560 sisters teach in Catholic schools of the Southwest.

Some sisters are visiting beauty parlors and getting permanent waves for the first time in their lives.

Most have dropped ecclesiastical Latin names for the names they had since infancy. Sister Mary Humiliata, the order's vital and gracious mother general, for example, is now Sister Anita Caspary.

"Grand Silence" Abolished

No longer do sisters rise invariably at 5:20 a.m. and, in the experience of one, "spend the first three hours of the day in a fog. It was possible to sleep through morning prayers. I speak from experience."

Gone is the no-conversation "grand silence" among sisters from 9 p.m. until after breakfast next morning. Gone is the arbitrary 10 p.m. lights out. Nuns set their own schedules for retiring, rising, praying, meditating and attending Mass. The only rule on late-night talk is thoughtfulness for others.

Claim Obeying Pope

The sisters announced their experimental changes last October, saying they were in keeping with Pope Paul VI's exhortation to Catholic orders "to examine and renew their way of life and to engage in wide-ranging experimentation in achieving this renewal."

Gradually the word got out that the cardinal disapproved, that he even had fired the tradition-defying schoolteachers.

Sister Anita, the mother general, wrote 7,500 parents: "After 82 years in the archdiocese of Los Angeles, the sisters of the Immaculate Heart are being asked to stop teaching your children in the parochial schools."

Cardinal Denies Dismissal Cardinal McIntyre issued a statement denying that he had dismissed the sisters. It did say they had been asked to determine how many wish to remain teachers "as religious"—that is, as members of a religious order.

"Sure he has fired them," says a male instructor at Immaculate Heart College. "The issue is whether institutions of the Church can be democratized or whether the old Roman law will prevail."

The cardinal stands for the old Roman law.

The cardinal has said "the final decision on the future steps to be taken by the Immaculate Heart sisters resides with the sisters themselves."

Protest Group Organized Will the teachers return in the fall?

"That still is not a settled question," replied the college's president, Sister Helen Kelley, 42. "That's certainly the interpretation we have put on it," she said.

Both sides in the controversy have limited themselves largely to written, polite and generalized statements. But plenty is said on the sidelines.

A conservative lay group, moved by what spokesmen called the nuns' "disobedience," organized to call attention to those "defying Church authority."

Franciscans Approve Change

The 700-member Los Angeles Association of Laymen, deploring the "great tragedy" of the dispute, defended the nuns' "right to experiment and make their own rules."

Franciscan priests and brothers expressed "unqualified approval and support of the measures taken by the sisters to shape and develop their community in accord with the spirit and decrees of the Vatican II Ecumenical Council."

Twenty-nine Jesuit priests, mostly faculty members at Loyola University here, sent the cardinal an open letter saying the sisters "are justified in initiating experimental changes." Another 28 Jesuits disassociated themselves from the first group.

Habit Makes Barrier

The purpose of modern dress? Sister Anita has said: "So we are not set aside from the people we are trying to serve. There is one argument, which is good, that members of religious orders should be recognizable so people will approach them."

"But for many others the habit constitutes a barrier. We become an object of awe or represent an institution for which they have no sympathy."

Of convent life: "There's a danger of having too small a world."

25 Refuse to Modernize

Our job is to take in the world and work and worry with it—not to be removed from it, not to become involved in our own miniature world."

About 25 of the 150 college sisters, mostly older ones, cling to their old habits and ways. The changes, which include democratization of convent life, will be re-evaluated by the sisters' own legislative assembly next summer.

Burton Reveals Adoption Plans And Retirement

LONDON (AP) — A London newsman quotes Richard Burton as saying he and Elizabeth Taylor will adopt a baby within a year because the actress runs a high risk of death in childbirth.

Burton also told writer Fergus Cashin of the London Daily Sketch Tuesday that he and Miss Taylor would retire from acting within the next two years.

"My interest in the cinema is moving from acting to production. We have our own company and both Elizabeth and myself will retire from acting within the next two years."

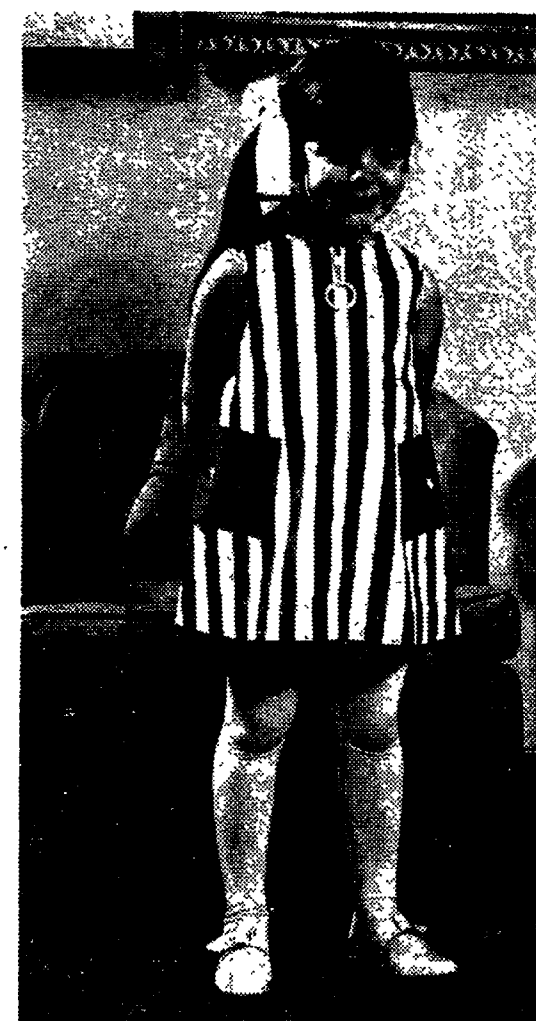

"When I retire I will concentrate on writing. Let's face it. I have not been a dedicated actor. It is all bloody marvelous luck."

Burton said childbirth would result in a 50-50 chance of death for Miss Taylor and "as far as I'm concerned the risk is not on."

"I cannot see life without Elizabeth. She is my everything—my breath, my blood, my mind and my imagination. If anything happened to her I would die."

"No, we want to—and will—adopt a baby within the year." The couple now have five children by their previous marriages.

Older Children Need Attention When Baby Receives Gifts

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I know of no better place to air this criticism. Please print it for the thousands of thoughtless people in the world who "mean no harm" but are guilty anyway. Even grandmothers.

When visiting in a home where there are children, it is natural to focus most of the attention on the baby. The baby, is, after all, the newcomer and all babies are wee and cuddly and lovable. But please don't forget to at least acknowledge the presence of an older child.

It's very sad when the new baby gets the gifts and is the center of attention while the sister or brother is ignored completely. I have seen this happen so often, and it is heartbreaking. I'm sure these folks mean well, Ann, but a word from you might straighten them around. — Chapel Hill, N.C.

Dear N.C.: Thank you for the reminder and now may I add a word of my own? If guests are thoughtful, the mother should turn some attention toward the older child by remarking on how helpful she is — any supportive

KC Women, Council Plan Potluck Supper

A joint potluck supper for Knights of Columbus Ladies and Council 607 will be at 6:30 p.m. March 28 at the Columbus Club. The Rev. Elroy Reimer will be the speaker. Winners of the March 17 spelling contest and their parents will be guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Murphy will serve as chairmen. Assisting them will be Mr. and Mrs. Richard Rand, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Cornell, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Dressang, Dr. and Mrs. J. K. Dean, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. George Otto.

Persons planning to attend have been asked to call Mr. and Mrs. Murphy or Mr. and Mrs. George LaBonte before March 26. Everyone attending has been asked to bring a casserole, salad or dessert.

statement will serve the purpose.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I need an answer to this question and I don't know where else to get it. Is it possible to sell one's body to a medical school and collect the money while still alive?

I need to know about this because I have two elderly parents who are in desperate need of medical attention and I am unable to help them. Also if you can tell me approximately what I could get for my body (I am male, middle-aged and in good health) I would appreciate the information. Thank you. — A.S.R.

Dear A.S.R.: In a number of states there are laws which prohibit the sale of a live body. Your best source of information regarding the laws in your area would be the county attorney's office. And while you're near a phone, please make another call. Contact the welfare department and learn what type of assistance is available for your elderly parents.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Last year about this time I noticed my daughter's clothes seemed awfully tight on her. When I mentioned it Adella said, "It's the style." It wasn't long before I could see the girl was pregnant.

The boy was only 17 and Adella was 14. Marriage was out of the question. I sent her to my sister in Montana. The baby was put up for adoption.

Four months ago Adella returned home. I thought she had learned her lesson, but I was wrong. She has been sneaking out the back door at night to meet with the boy who got her into trouble — and I have reason to believe there are others. She assures me she will not get pregnant again because she's a lot smarter than she was last year. I am sick to think that my daughter is behaving like a woman of the streets. How can I be sure she won't get in the same fix again? Is the pill the answer? — R.

Dear R: You can't be sure of anything, except that Adella needs professional counseling. The pill is no answer for a 15-year-old kid.

Call the Family Service Association. They have psychiatric social workers who are extremely competent and have a high degree of compassion and understanding. And good luck to all of you.

What is French kissing? Is it wrong? Who should set the necking limits — the boy or the girl? Can a shotgun wedding succeed? Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-age Sex — Ten-Ways To Cool It." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. (Copyright, 1968)

Price Reflects Quality of Wool

You may wonder why woolen sweaters of apparently the same size and style may have different price tags. This probably is because they're made from different grades of wool, according to Ray Antoniewicz, meat and animal science instructor at the University of Wisconsin.

The finer the wool, the higher its grade, and the more expensive it's likely to be. Finer wool — often graded as Merino fine — makes finer, lighter and warmer sweaters than coarser or lower-grade wool.

Wool quality can usually be traced back to how sheep are raised and sheared. Breeding, management and the sheep's health are crucial factors affecting wool quality. The ability to produce fine wool is an inherited trait. Wool from mismanaged, unhealthy sheep has a dull color and weak fibers.

How Wool Graded

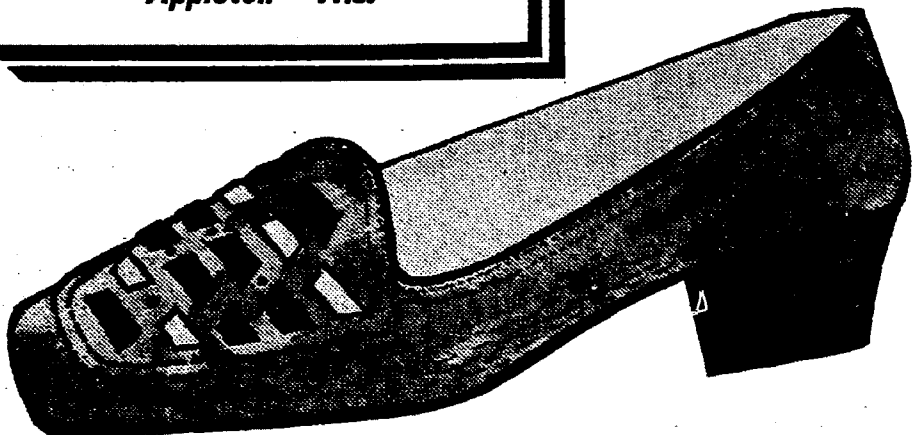

Wool is graded according to fineness, elasticity, uniformity, softness and purity. Color, strength, shrink and length of wool fibers also affect quality. Because of wool's crimp and shrink, it's best to dry-clean woolen material, and avoid machine-washing it. Crimp refers to the "curliness" of the wool fibers, and shrink refers to its tendency to contract.

Wool's softness, insulating ability, and water retaining and shedding ability make it a popular clothing material. Research in the last decade has developed chemical treatments for wool to further improve its quality. One process makes wool shrink resistant. Another treatment puts a permanent crease in wool.

Lovelier You

Time for Ruffles

A gathering trend toward softer, more feminine and romantic clothes shows itself in gentle silhouettes, in sheer fabrics and fabrics with cling, and in powdery pale colors. But its clearest indication comes in accessories with a flourish of ruffled touches.

To adorn a neckline, there are pique ascots bordered in pleated ruffles, organdy jabots a-flutter with deep fluffy ruffles, and ruffled circlelets fashioned of coin-dot silk. Froths of ruffles embellish the wrists of gloves and form cuffs to wear with dresses. Layers of organdy and taffeta beruffle the wide-brimmed leg-horn sort of hat. Mini-brellas—rain-proofed parasols—are afloat with ruffles or wear ruffled covers.

Yes, my lovely, romance is in the air. But like other love affairs, this one has its ups and downs. Ruffles can easily begin to cloy.

Muffled in ruffles, a damsel who is already fluffy as a ruffle could appear dollish. A shower of ruffles on a sleek woman could cancel out her chic. To be on the safe side, we recommend one ruffle to a customer.

Then there's the matter of a figure flattery. You have to be fairly slim to carry off full, deep ruffling. And extravagant frill at the neckline, for instance, is not a wise choice for a short neck. As with out facets of fashion, proportion is the secret of success here.

What's your figure problem? To achieve total attractiveness send for my booklet, "Secrets of

Careers in Library Science Are Not Yawning Matters

Miss Mary Lee Miller didn't need to travel 800 miles per week visiting Wisconsin college campuses to earn "people want to yawn then they look at a librarian's work from the outside." But it did come as a surprise to find even the college educated clinging to the belief that librarians are spinster bookworms who ask nothing more of life than a dusty tome and a dull job.

Now 13 campuses and seven months later, Miss Miller takes those estimated "15 laughs to every serious inquiry" in stride when she sets up her career booth in schools across the state. As Wisconsin's first library career consultant, she has maintained her contagious enthusiasm for creating interest in qualified people for an exciting field that requires 2,000 more professionals in Wisconsin alone to keep pace with the 20th century "information explosion."

Few Respond at Center
This week, Miss Miller visited the University of Wisconsin Fox Valley Center where she found student response to be "less than moderate." She noted the few who did stop to inquire about a career in library science seemed highly qualified, but as with most extension centers (two year institutions), the student body impressed her as uncommitted vocationally.

On the other hand, an earlier visit to Lawrence University provided an opportunity to talk with a healthy sampling of students, many of whom were about to graduate and enter competition in the job market.

What kind of future can Miss Miller outline for those who are interested in a career in library science? To those who ask, she answers that it offers an outlet for nearly every academic interest. There are job opportunities with public, academic, school, state and regional libraries, as well as with special services, VISTA, the Peace Corps, the Armed Forces here and abroad, and U.S. embassies. Specialized libraries dealing in law, history, music, art, industry, foreign language, the sciences and institutional work abound.

Qualified People Sought
Men and women in their first year as librarians are earning an average annual salary of $7,000, with academic and specialized libraries paying more and 25 cents in coin. (Copyright, 1968)

and some public libraries less. For every library science graduate, there are 20 jobs available in the U.S. The majority offer excellent opportunities to advance, while all include liberal vacations — usually one month — the first year — plus many other benefits.

But in spite of the acute shortage of librarians, the profession demands highly qualified people in terms of educational background and personal factors. The former consists of a broad liberal arts background with a B.A. or B.S. degree in the student's field of interest, at least 12 semester credits of a foreign language, a grade-point average of 2.75 and a master's degree in library science.

Wants 'Certain Spark'
At the same time, Miss Miller is seeking someone with "that certain spark"; someone who is reasonably creative, who has a fresh approach, who can effectively serve all kinds of people and who is vitally interested in the present and has considerable knowledge of the past.

Bookworms, she adds, do not qualify in the personality department; but women who have raised a family and wish to return to a profession, or people wanting to change careers are welcome to share their added perspective of experience with society through library work. Placing the role of librarian in the contest of the human condition, Miss Miller sees it as a crucial one in determining the course of the future. "Our ability to communicate," she states, "is the key to world understanding. It is the responsibility of the librarian to facilitate communication by making books, magazines, recordings, framed prints — all expressions of human thought available and, above all, encouraging their use by the public."

Personal Contributions
A former resident of Appleton, Miss Miller has made her own notable contributions as a librarian. Since graduating from the University of Wisconsin with a B.A. degree in Spanish literature and French and a master's degree in library science in 1965, she has developed an education program for people over 55 and aided in a remedial reading project for high school dropouts in Rochester, N.Y.

In addition to her duties as library career consultant for Wisconsin, she is working with the University of Wisconsin to develop programs for the continuing education of librarians. Anyone interested in more information on a career in library science may contact Miss Miller at the following address: Miss Mary Lee Miller, Library Career Consultant, 305 Chapman Hall, University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, Milwaukee, Wis. 53201.

Mixed Crew Proposed By Aerospace Engineer

By RONALD THOMPSON
NEW ORLEANS (AP) — You often hear about the "human factors" of man in space. Can he survive a journey to Mars? How does he react to weightlessness, and the hostility that goes with it? Yet, rarely do you hear about his most personal of "human factors"—the weaker sex, woman, and her role in America's future space ventures.

"Why not?" says Lawrence E. Jenkins, an aerospace engineer who has studied the question and posed it as a serious scientific consideration. "Why not send women along?"

Jenkins, manager of space systems technology for Lockheed Missiles and Space Co., Sunnyvale, Calif., discussed the point at a convention of some 250 experts meeting to discuss manned missions to the planets, flights that would take up to three years to complete. In a scientific paper, he proposed:

New Crew Composition
"A new crew composition approach that should be considered is that of a crew composed of men and women."

He said in an interview that to his surprise when he began researching the psychological factors to be considered in picking six to 10 or more crew members for extended space journeys, he discovered virtually a complete absence of study of possible mixed crews.

"Take a spaceflight lasting as long as it would take to get to Mars. The crew is going to be very dependent on each other," Jenkins explained. "I'm not talking so much about the sexual drive, and the sexual needs in man as I am the emotional stability the opposite sex can provide."

"Just like the fellow who seems more stable when he gets home from the office if he's with his wife, the woman he loves," he said. "There's a natural bond between man and wife that can lead to more understanding and stability during a period of ordeal. Thus, it could be a mental health safety factor."

"Now, she'd have to be a functioning crew member. She couldn't be taken along merely as a guest," Jenkins explained. In fact women have proven on earth that there are some jobs they're more suited for than men."

"There are many female scientists around today who, if they had their own way, would be in the astronaut corps now," Jenkins said.

Several Have Applied
The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has no announced rule against lady astronauts. It is known that several have applied, but none ever made it to the final selection board.

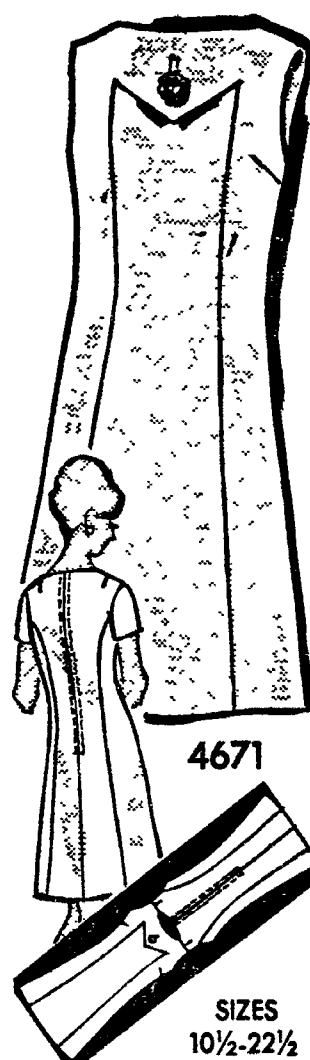

Brownie Troop 97 of St. Thomas More School entertained patients at the Appleton Extended Care Center Friday afternoon with a musical program. The Brownies sang several

March of Toys Now Heads For Golden Age Clubhouse

BY ALICE HUCK
Post-Crescent Women's Editor

Although it's a long time until Christmas, members of the Newcomers Club, Civic League and Golden Agers must think of toys from now until December. In fact, they have been thinking of them ever since Dec. 26, 1967.

The March of Toys is the big money-raising project each year, and has been for the past 15 years, for the Golden Age Clubhouse. During the month of February, and into March, women in the area have been entertaining their neighbors at teas, coffees, bridges and "just parties." At each home, price of admission is a toy, or toys.

Now, all of these toys are being taken to the workshop at the Golden Age clubhouse and each Monday night at 7:30 a group of people gathers to give the collected toys the treatment they need to get into like-new condition.

More Toys Needed

Many more toys are needed, and anyone may drop off used or new toys at the Golden Age

Club, 532 N. Appleton. They all will be put in shape for the December sale, which last year netted $2,231 for the club.

When the Golden Agers purchased their clubhouse eight years ago, the asking price was $40,000, but they succeeded in getting it for $28,000. Toy sale money, plus the October pancake supper and bazaar, paid off the mortgage in seven years. Then an old frame house next door was purchased. The Golden Agers hope someday the clubhouse can be expanded to include a large social room.

General chairmen of the annual toy project are Mrs. Martin Weber and Mrs. Darrel Johnson. Mrs. B. J. Haza is handling publicity. Responsibility for various types of toys has been divided into departments.

Department heads are boys, Mrs. James Hammond, chairman; Mrs. Norman Wallis, co-chairman; dolls, Mrs. Milo Swanton and Mrs. Robert Kirschner; girls' toys, Mrs. Peter Lange and Mrs. Allen Jenquin; stuffed animals, Mrs. Lee Stephens and Mrs. Joel Hervat; books and games, Mrs. Herbert Schmidt and Mrs. Warren Hahn; toddlers, Mrs. Giles Wittig and Mrs. Michael Teidt.

Men in charge of the toy hospital are Jack Frese, Henry Berringer, John Jost and O. R. Fredericks.

Will Pick Up

Although it is helpful to workers if the toys are dropped off at the clubhouse, they will be picked up if a call is made to Mrs. Dave Wigton, 2017 N. Linwood Ave. or Mrs. Richard Willis, 724 E. Marquette St.

The Golden Age Club is a red feather agency and was included in the Red Feather campaign with a 1968 budget of $2,900. This money, plus $500 from the City of Appleton Recreation Department, is used for operating expenses.

Sheinwold Doubleton Aces Key To Winning

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Earlier in the week we went back 14 years to see how an expert muffed a simple safety play in a world championship. We didn't have to look so far and so hard. Experts miss simple plays all the time.

When today's hand was played in the match between Norway and Great Britain in the 1967 European Team Championships, declarer won the first trick with the king of clubs and led a spade to dummy's queen. So far, so good.

Declarer fell from grace when he returned a spade from dummy, losing the king to West's ace. Back came a club to the ace.

South led a diamond to dummy's king and returned a heart to the queen. Then he led another heart, losing dummy's king to the ace. The defenders took their two club tricks and then East returned a spade to dummy's jack. South had two tricks in each suit and needed a 3-3 break in either spades or hearts. When neither suit broke favorably, he was down one.

Simple Play

Of course you have seen the simple play that brings the contract home. When dummy's queen holds the first spade trick the odds are very high that West has the ace. Declarer should plan to lead spades again from his own hand.

To get to his own hand, declarer leads a low heart from dummy to his own queen. Now he leads another low spade. West is obliged to play the ace, and declarer still has his own king and dummy's jack, making three spade tricks instead of only two.

South can make three tricks in either major suit by leading low cards twice toward the hand with two honors. This works not only if the suit breaks 3-3 but also if second-hand has the doubleton ace.

This play is well known both

Chief of Police To Talk on Safety

LITTLE CHUTE — Chief of Police Robert Nechodom will discuss safety at a meeting of the American Legion Junior Auxiliary at 2 p.m. Saturday at the Village Hall.

A report will be given on the recent donation to the Olympic Fund, and Cindy Bongers and Betty Ann Kilsdonk will contrast the meaning of freedom and law in the U.S. and Russia. Mrs. Marvin Vander Velden and Mrs. Richard Jansen will have charge of lunch.

Rummage Sale Set for Friday

The Salvation Army plans a rummage sale Friday in the basement at 130 E. North St. Clothing and miscellaneous items will be sold. The event is open to the public.

In Norway and in Great Britain, experts miss plays that they know as well as plays that they don't know.

Daily Question

Partner opens with 1 NT (16 to 18 points), and the next player bids two hearts. You hold: SA 5 H 10 9 8 6 D Q 7 4 C J 7 5 3. What do you say?

Answer: Double, unless your opponent is famous for his conservative bidding. Your side has more high cards and more trumps than the other side; you should be able to beat two hearts, and you may collect a very sizable penalty.

The smart rejoinder, the cutting remark, that pops into your mind when it is too late, represent your subconscious feelings, though circumstances cause you to hide them.

Learning Time Is Any Time for Child

Lunchtime, snacktime — any time is learning time for preschoolers. Here's a suggestion you may want to try: At snacktime try to teach them something about shape by offering them cookies in different shapes — round, square, triangular — and identifying the shapes as the children pick them out. To teach them about color, say, "Put on your blue-and-white scarf" rather than simply, "Put on your scarf." At laundrytime ask one of the children to bring you three clothespins or two bars of soap; this teaches them numbers. It seems like a game to them, but they are learning all the time.

School Important for Young Navajo Students

By VIVIAN BROWN
NEW YORK (AP) — Student Navajos may have been hardest hit of all Indians when a big blizzard swept their reservation this winter: they couldn't go to school.

The majority of Indian youth will undergo every hardship to attend public schools where their contact with non-Indians and another world brings promises, hopes, dreams.

But for most young Indians, though their lot has improved slightly, such dreams are shortlived. Full-time employment on reservations is nonexistent. Part-time employment is available to few. Life expectancy is in the middle 40s.

Travel Long Distances

Yet, they will travel long distances to public schools—50 or more miles to a bus that will perhaps take them another 20 miles, points out Mary Lou Ewing, assistant director of the American Indian Program of Save the Children Foundation.

"I've seen Hopi Indians climb into cars at six in the morning to be driven 80 miles to school, the beginning of what must be a 12-hour school day," she explains.

They attend boarding school or live in bordertown dormitories where public schools are located at government expense. Both arrangements have drawbacks, and they undergo great difficulties to commute to public schools.

Found Frozen

Young Indians trying to get to school have been found frozen.

For 10 years, about twice a month, Mrs. Ewing has been leaving family and piano students in Albuquerque to visit Indian reservations scattered over New Mexico, Arizona, South Carolina and Oklahoma in the interest of administering the program which covers about 5,000 Indian youngsters and awards scholarships to outstanding teen-agers. She first introduced the child-family-community sponsorship to the Hopis for whom she has a special fondness.

"Young Indians going off to boarding school are likely to have their entire wardrobes on their backs," she says.

When Blizzard Hit

She was on the Navajo reservation when the blizzard hit. She saw livestock, their livelihood, made immobile by snow up to their heads. Even in the best of circumstances, the average family income is only $750. So, she hurried to Albuquerque to help speed the shipment of 5,000 tons of clothing from their warehouse in Knoxville. The public has been responding with funds for Navajo relief to The Save the Children Federation offices in Norwalk, Conn.

Nowadays, young Indians emulate non-Indians in dress. Most prefer levis, shorts, shoes which appeal their elders. Some still wear traditional ankle-length skirts and moccasins and all study ceremonial dances, but one hears rock and roll and other modern music now on the reservations.

The federation programs teach young girls homemaking arts—cooking, sewing, up-holstering.

Young boys learn shop work, plumbing and can install bathroom facilities when the U.S. Health Department makes them available. Self-help scholarship aids from the SCF requires that funds be earned for school needs. Recipients pay off this debt by working in medical clinics, tribal libraries, or by sewing layettes, building remadas (shelters) or renovating houses for elderly people.

Life Insurance Coverage Cannot be Transferred

BY MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management
Dear Miss Feeley:
I have two paid-up 20-year payment whole life insurance policies on my two daughters. They are both married now, and since I have so little insurance on myself I'm wondering if I could transfer these two $500 policies to a policy on myself. I paid all the premiums and am the beneficiary. Please advise me.

C.W., Palatine, Ill.

Dear C.W.:
Unless there were some special provisions made when you bought these policies, they automatically became the property of your children when they came of age legally. This means they have the right to change the beneficiary — unless as a part of the contracts you were named an irrevocable beneficiary. You can't "transfer" them to insure yourself, or make any other use of them unless you actually own them.

Dear Miss Feeley:
Two years ago a friend passed away and left a $1,000 government bond in our care to give a friend of hers after her death. We haven't been able to locate this friend. The bond is in her name and that of the deceased.

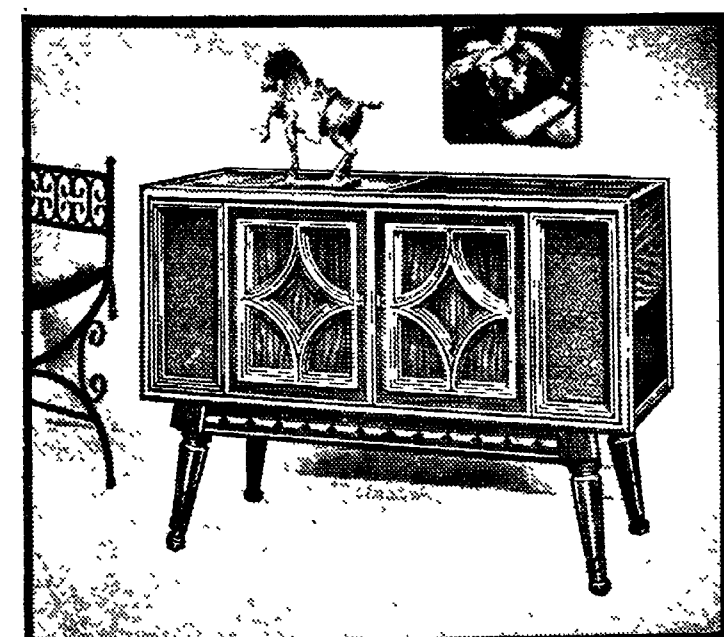

What should we do with it?
H.B., Harvey, Ill.

Dear H.B.:
While the Treasury Department will attempt to assist people in verifying records of bonds that are lost or misplaced, they can't and don't offer to locate people who may be entitled to them. Your question is one for a lawyer. In fact,

New Window Treatments For Spring

"Suddenly it's spring!" Pussywillows begin to unfold their softness. buds break through the golden blooms of forsythia and daffodils brighten our hearts. And, just as suddenly, the house begins to look winter-worn.

Spring outside is one thing; spring indoors is another. Yet, windows figure prominently in both situations. We see nature blooming through windows; and, fresh, bright, sparkling window treatments can bring all of spring's natural beauty indoors.

Many Sizes, Shapes
Windows are like people. however, in that they come in all sorts, sizes and shapes. But there is a decorative solution for every window, no matter how difficult or different its shape. Most homemakers can do their own window decorating, if they take time to study particular decorating problems and then research them sufficiently. It is important to know the terms to have a basic working vocabulary.

Window wall — A series or group of floor to ceiling picture windows, or any expansive window units that combine to form a wall of windows or "glass wall."

Eclectic — A technique of decorating, popular right now, of mixing furniture and accessories from past and present periods, and from many areas of the world.

Cafe Curtains — Short curtains designed to cover bottom half of window. Length depends on style of window. They can be formal or informal depending on setting, styling.

Valance — The top or horizontal section of any drapery arrangement.

Draperies — are made of heavier fabric than that used for curtains. They have simple pinch or box - pleated headings and come in a variety of lengths and widths. They can be hung straight or tied back.

Fiberglass curtains and draperies come in a great variety of colors, styles, textures, lengths and widths and are adaptable to every decorating style — from modern to Early American, from traditional to today.

Fiberglass fabrics are washable, never need ironing, and properly dyed or printed, they retain the fire-safe quality of the glass yarns from which they are made. Fiberglass fabrics won't stretch, sag or shrink out of shape.

Care in Washing

Hand wash Fiberglass curtains and draperies, dipping gently in warm water and any mild soap. too.

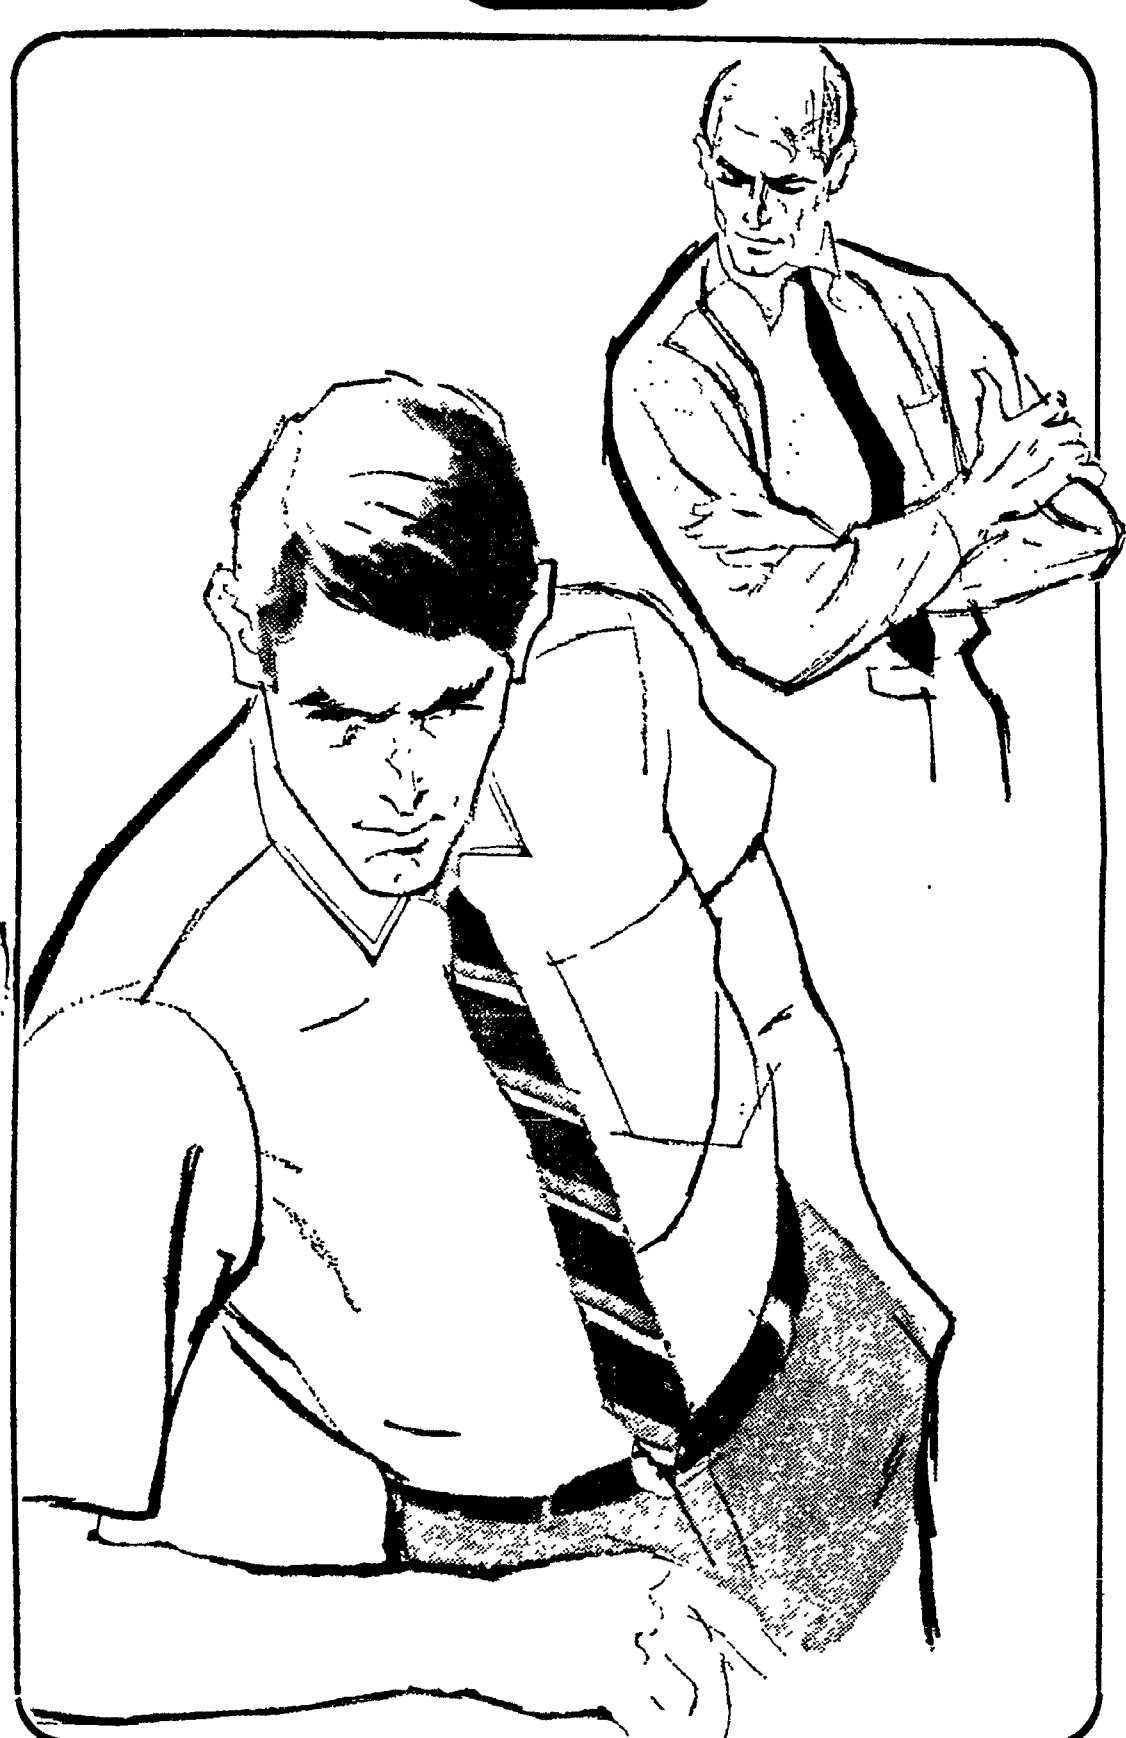

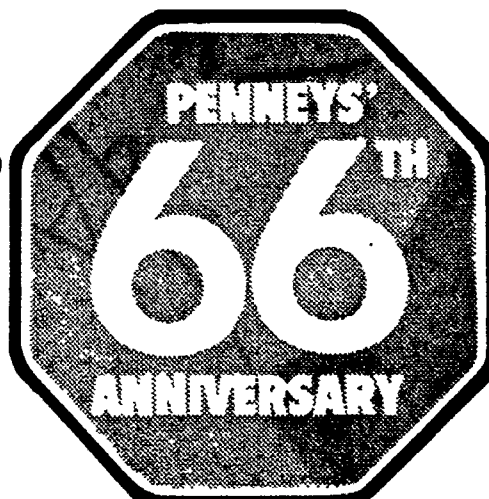

Rinse thoroughly in clear, warm water. Squeeze gently to remove excess water. Dry by hanging over a shower rod or a padded clothes line. Hang on rods while still damp, smoothing hems and seams with the finger tips.

Remember never use bleach, never machine wash them, never machine dry them, and never iron Fiberglass fabrics.

Fiberglass curtains and draperies should be washed by themselves. And the tub or basin should be rinsed thoroughly after each washing.

With this simple care, your Fiberglass curtains and draperies will keep their springtime freshness through summer, fall or winter. And suddenly, it's spring again — from the windows out, and from the inside,

City Attorney Gives Ruling

Beer Age Advisory Illegal

Any local advisory referendum on changing the beer-drinking age to 21 statewide would be in conflict with the statutes, City Atty. David Geenen said today.

Geenen was requested recently by the city council's welfare-ordinance committee to render a legal opinion.

An Appleton housewife had asked the council to authorize an advisory referendum in April "so the people of this community could let their opinions be known to the State Legislature."

However, in the absence of an advisory vote, she said petitions would be circulated to obtain direct legislation which would call for the beer-drinking age to be raised from 18 to 21 in Appleton.

No Jurisdiction

"There does not appear to be any question that the City of Appleton has no jurisdiction to enact a statewide minimum beer drinking age, and therefore conclude that if a petition were filed requesting a referendum, no action would be required of the council," Geenen held.

In effect, Geenen said statute indicates the city has no authority to become involved in a

Claim Police Bore Brunt of Blame

Lawmen Flay Riot Commission Report

BY BILL KNUTSON
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

RHINELANDER — Expressing belief that "police took the brunt of the blame" for last year's riots in major American cities, the Wisconsin Sheriffs and Deputy Sheriffs Association executive board, meeting here Wednesday, blasted the 200,000-word report of the National Advisory Committee on Civil Disorders.

The executive unit of the 3,000-member law enforcement organization unanimously passed a resolution expressing disagreement with the report released last week, then moved to send copies of the action to the National Sheriffs Association, for action at its summer conference, and to U.S. Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark and Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner, chairman of the presidential commission named to investigate last year's major riots in 23 cities.

The tersely-worded resolution by the largest single law enforcement group in the state noted that the report was a move on the part of the commission to "handcuff and undermine local law enforcement in its protection of society, just as recent Supreme Court decisions have done."

Discussion Brief
Discussion on the actual report was relatively brief, and some members of the executive unit said they had not studied the riot report in detail. Outagamie County Undersheriff Calvin L. Spice is president of the sheriffs and deputies association.

Sgt. Walter (Bud) Wolf, Marathon County Sheriff's Department detective, said that "police are bound to uphold the law, and now (in the report) they are being blamed for upholding it."

"The criminal keeps getting rights; it's about time the police and the citizen get some rights," Wolf remarked.

Raymond J. Howard, Fond du Lac County undersheriff, assessed the report as being "another step to undermine law enforcement." Joining Wolf and Howard in urging association action opposing the report was Roger H. Reinelt, Jefferson County undersheriff, who asked for the resolution.

Although only one phase of the investigation report dealt with law enforcement activities in the country's riots last summer, the 11-member commission, impaneled seven months ago made several references to police in the detailed report.

For instance, the report noted that the Milwaukee riot was one of 12 in which police actions were identified as the "final incident" before the violence.

The report stated that police bullets, fired at law breakers during riot situations, struck spectators, including children. The commission went into vivid detail on some of the actual shooting situations in some of the cities.

Gunfire Blamed

"On a number of occasions, officers fired at fleeing looters, then made little attempt to determine whether their shots had hit anyone. Later some of the persons were discovered dead or wounded in the street," the commission stated in a report on a Detroit incident.

Forty-three persons were killed in the Detroit rioting last summer.

In another of its frequent references to police, the report noted that "little has been done since last summer to remove riot causes."

"In several cities, the principal official response has been to train and equip the police with more sophisticated weapons," the report noted.

Weapons Condemned

The commission condemned such a move, saying "Weapons which are designed to destroy, not to control, have no place in densely populated urban communities."

The commission also said that more Negro policemen should be recruited and in future disorders, authorities should muster maximum police manpower immediately and send it into trouble areas, under the command of seasoned officers.

The report also suggested "fair and effective mechanisms for the redress of grievances against the police." It proposed, among other things, civilian police review boards.

List New School Needs, Council Tells School Board

Aldermen Concerned Over Debt

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Appleton aldermen told the board of education Wednesday night to provide a list of new school needs.

The needs are to cover "the reasonable future", according to a resolution which was adopted by the council in a special action following suspension of the rules.

A resolution, submitted by Ald. Alvin E. Tews (5th), chairman of the council's finance committee, noted the city's indebtedness was at an all-time high and said new school costs have been a major contributing factor.

In recent weeks several aldermen and other municipal officials have been apprehensive of school board actions with

School Building Costs Over Half of City Debt

Appleton's bonded debt for all purposes is $24.5 million and about 60 per cent of its legal limit, according to Finance Director Henry Schreve.

Board of education construction projects presently account for $13.5 million of the total debt.

The city's annual interest-principal payments total $1.5 million of which $900,000 is for board of education debt.

regard to closing old schools, claiming the board appears to be deviating from the last capital improvement program it submitted to the council less than six months ago.

Not Best Location

There have also been growing signs, according to some officials, that selection of the Mielke property for a new McKinley School may not have represented the best location for the southside population.

Fear is being expressed that the board of education may be Appleton will be the scene of a major policy address by U.S. Senator Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn. on March 15 as he brings his presidential campaign to the Fox Cities region.

That McCarthy — the anti-Vietnam war candidate — will be making his first Wisconsin appearance here right after the New Hampshire primary was confirmed Wednesday night at a meeting of the "McCarthy for President" group.

More than 100 persons from Appleton and surrounding communities met in the Reddy Room at the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. building and heard reports from John Johnson, a member of McCarthy's campaign staff.

Lawrence Speech
Les Balliet, chairman of the arrangements for McCarthy's appearance here, said the senator would arrive in Appleton about 2:30 p.m. and speak in Stansbury Theater auditorium

Apply for Certification

First Step Taken for Housing

Appleton has joined the growing ranks of Wisconsin cities seeking federal assistance for a housing project for the elderly.

By a 19-0 vote Wednesday night the city council submitted its application for certification of a workable communitywide program, the first requisite for qualifying for a federal grant.

The city will be dealing with the regional office of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) at Chicago.

Aldermen took their action on the recommendation of the city housing authority, Planner Walter Rasmussen and the Mayor's Citizens Advisory Committee.

Data Research

The committee did considerable research to obtain the data and other information required to complete the bulky application.

Several other communities in this part of the state, including Kaukauna and Fond du Lac, have already approved high-rise apartment projects to provide low rental housing for the elderly.

Mayor George Buckley submitted the documents, including a declaration of city policy, to the council for approval and forwarding to HUD.

Earlier in the week a representative of the regional HUD office met with the Housing Authority at city hall and said Appleton could undertake a project calling for 250 to 300 living units to start with.

Paves the Way

However, the application approved last night had nothing to do with the scope of the project. It merely paves the way for the city to become eligible for the federal program.

Ald. Clifford Radder (16th) was the only council member expressing hesitancy about giving immediate approval as requested by the mayor and planner. He thought aldermen should be given copies of the lengthy document to study and then act in two weeks or so.

"It is a huge document and we have two copies on file here at city hall for anyone to review," Rasmussen told the council.

Rasmussen said he didn't expect HUD to give immediate approval to Appleton's application, predicting there would be some problems to be ironed out at a later date.

Approval Urged

"However, this council should give approval to the housing for the elderly application tonight," Rasmussen said emphatically.

He told aldermen they would have future opportunities to make any revisions if they desired but insisted time was of the essence to "start

Steiger Urges Early Protest to Pipeline

Has Asked for Extension for Objections to Appleton Project

Rep. William Steiger, R-Oshkosh, today urged his Sixth District constituents to file objection as soon as possible with the U.S. Corps of Engineers, Chicago, if they oppose the construction of a water pipeline under the Fox River from Lake Winnebago to Appleton.

In a news release, Steiger said that "Because of the interest in the project by those living along the lake shore, I feel that it is imperative that adequate time to file objections be allowed." He has requested the Corps of Engineers to accept objections past the present deadline of March 15.

He also said that he was not sure his request for an extension would be allowed, therefore, "those who have voiced objections to the pipeline should file as soon as possible."

Buckley Irked

Mayor George Buckley of Appleton was anything but charitable in commenting on the action of Congressman William Steiger today.

"I can't figure out why Mr. Steiger is now sticking his nose into Appleton's business," Buckley declared, "I would think he should concentrate on running his own balliwick."

Buckley said the city programmed the Lake Winnebago water project on the basis of the best advice available from the experts and hydrologists.

"I think that speaks for itself," Buckley added.

and the U.S. Canal, Appleton, would be about 3.9 miles long. The City of Appleton already has submitted an application for a federal authorization to install the pipeline. It would have a minimum of 3.5 feet of cover.

Steiger said the lake intake will be extended four feet above the lake bottom and would be protected by rubble stone rip-rap.

According to the public notice filed on Appleton's application, the "determination as to whether a permit will be issued (to Appleton)" must rest primarily upon the effect of the proposed work on navigation.

"However, other pertinent factors, including fish and wildlife conservation aspects will be accepted and made a part of the record and will be considered in determining whether it would be in the best public interest to grant a permit," she was riding was struck by a notice said.

"Any objection to or any statements or information on aspects of the proposed work should be mailed to reach the office on or before March 15."

Truck Strikes Young Cyclist

Rural Kaukauna Girl Treated at Hospital For Minor Injuries

Connie M. Randerson, 12, of Kaukauna, was taken to Kaukauna Community Hospital by ambulance after the bicycle struck the rear of a truck about 5:40 p.m. Wednesday on Outagamie County Trunk S, two miles west of Freedom.

County police said the truck was driven by Alois S. Van Handel, 27, 1518 N. Elinor St. Van Handel was westbound on S when he reportedly swerved to avoid an oncoming vehicle that strayed over the center line. The right-hand, outside mirror on his truck struck the bicycle, which also was westbound, on the shoulder of the road.

The Randerson girl suffered a left leg laceration and bumps and bruises.

Orrin E. Zick, 17, route 2, Black Creek, suffered head and mouth injuries when his car struck the rear of a truck about 8:15 a.m. Wednesday on Outagamie County Trunk S, at County Trunk EE.

County police said that Zick was eastbound on S when he struck the rear of a pickup truck, driven by Jon L. Beyer, 17, route 3, Appleton. Zick was attempting to pass the truck.

Police said the truck spun around and struck a fence, owned by Orville Krobbe, route 3, Appleton. Damage totaled about $600.

Cycle Gang Member Faces Assault Charge

Milwaukee Man Bound Over for Trial at Waupaca

WAUPACA — A 20-year-old Milwaukee man, charged with sexually assaulting a 25-year-old Milwaukee woman during a Feb. 3 motorcycle gang party in a vacant cheese factory near Marion, Wednesday was bound over to county court for trial.

Joseph Bisenius, alleged motorcycle gang member, appeared at a preliminary hearing concerning the charge.

The woman who claims she was taken to the abandoned cheese factory by gunman testified Wednesday that Bisenius was one of three men that assaulted her.

Some time after the assaults, the woman was shot by a fourth man at the party and driven to the Clintonville hospital where she sought aid. She had been shot in the right shoulder, and appeared in court her arm in a sling.

Bisenius appeared before County Court Judge Wendell McHenry for the preliminary hearing. No trial date was set. Bisenius was the first of three men to be charged with rape following the incident.

Second Charged

A second man was arrested Monday in Milwaukee and appeared in Waupaca Municipal Justice Court Tuesday. He also has been bound over to county court for a preliminary hearing. Police still are seeking the third man.

A pair of torn slacks which the woman claimed were ripped off from her by the first two men that attacked her were introduced as evidence at the hearing by Dist. Atty. Richard E. Johnson.

While questioning the woman, Johnson requested the courtroom be cleared of all spectators and that only those directly involved in the case and news-men be permitted to remain. His request was granted by Judge McHenry.

The alleged attack occurred at about 7 a.m. on the morning of Feb. 3, the woman said. At the time, about 17 or 18 people were present in the abandoned cheese factory and attached house.

She had been sitting on a table in the dining room of the

Committee Seeks Land for Parking

Ask County Board for Money to Get Options Near Courthouse

Option money will be sought from the county board Tuesday by its public property and insurance committee to investigate the possibility of getting land for courthouse parking.

The committee will ask for $1,500 for option money and this morning authorized hiring an Appleton real estate agent to get cost figures on parcels of land.

Two separate blocks will be checked with comparative cost figures and availability of the land being supplied to the county board, probably in April, for the board to decide whether it wants to go ahead with purchases in one of the blocks.

Block Locations

One block is located southwest of the courthouse and is bounded by State, Walnut, Fifth and Sixth streets. The other block is northeast of the courthouse and is bounded by Superior, Elm, Seventh and Eighth streets. One parcel of land in the northeast block is now owned by the City of Appleton for park purposes.

Officials have estimated the area southwest of the courthouse could accommodate about 160 cars and the northeast area approximately 130 cars.

The southwest block contains 16 parcels of land and the northeast block has nine parcels, including the city-owned land.

Similar Study

A similar study was conducted several years ago with the idea of acquiring a portion of the southwest block but the county board at that time turned the plan down along with a plan for using a portion of the courthouse lawn for parking.

Courthouse parking is currently limited to an area between the courthouse and the annex and to whatever street space is available.

Dryness Increases Danger of Fires

MADISON (AP) — No snow and a dry ground cover has brought on 154 fires in the first two months of this year in southern Wisconsin and caused an extremely high fire potential in the northern area.

The state's ability to fight fires at this time is not adequate, Neil Le May, director of the Bureau of Forest Protection, warned today.

The early fire hazard comes at a time when the regular seasonal manpower buildup in the Division of Conservation leaves fire crews short-handed.

In addition, deep frost makes plowing of firebreaks virtually impossible, and loose sand and dirt is not available for fire fighters to shovel onto flames.

Man Taken to Hospital

William Drephal, 69, 2124 W. Charles St., was taken to Appleton Memorial Hospital by the Appleton Fire Department rescue squad about 8:30 a.m. today after he experienced difficulty breathing.

The Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod was well represented by the Rev. Dr. Oswald Hoffmann, left, who spoke on inter-Lutheran relations, Wednesday at Trinity, a member of the Lutheran Church in America (LCA). Welcoming the Lutheran Hour speaker are the Rev.

Speaks at Trinity

It's Time Lutherans See They Share Heritage, Dr. Hoffmann States

"We have been given a common heritage, now let's share it," Lutherans of a number of synods were told Wednesday.

Speaking on "Inter-Lutheran Progress and the Future," was the Rev. Dr. Oswald Hoffmann, speaker for the widely broadcast Lutheran Hour.

A minister of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, he was the first of four guest speakers for the midweek Lenten observances at Trinity, a member of the Lutheran Church in America (LCA) synod.

"We have fooled around too long and caused too many divisions. It's high time we get back to the realities," Dr. Hoffmann said.

A number of strides toward bridging the man-made gaps in the Lutheran Church have been made in this century, the speaker pointed out.

Movie Landmark

The film, "Martin Luther," made in 1952, which constituted the first common project of the various Lutheran bodies was a landmark in the fight for unity, Dr. Hoffmann said.

"It not only pointed out to the world what all of us believe in, but it also pointed out to us ourselves how strong our heritage is."

"There wasn't a single theological disagreement in all of the 18 months we made the film," the Lutheran pastor said, adding with a smile, "The only disagreement we had was whether the script would make a good movie."

Synods Combine

The first big landmark in this century came at the 400th anniversary of the Reformation, the speaker explained, when some 20 synods were brought together into the one LCA synod.

By coincidence, another landmark was the 450th anniversary of Reformation last year, he added.

"We began to realize we had the same heritage and that we better take a look at it if we hoped to renew our Church," he said.

No Break Seen in Negotiations With Teachers

MENASHA — The negotiations between the Menasha Teachers Union, Local 1166 AFL-CIO and the board of education bear no hint of progress nor stalemate.

"Negotiations are continuing," reported Supt. M. J. Gegan this morning, following Wednesday's bargaining session.

Bargaining will continue in another meeting set for 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Supt. Gegan will request authorization to release contracts compliance with the new state law, at the board's regular meeting 7 p.m. Monday.

Again this year, the superintendent will be offering "contracts" for next year's teaching, not including salaries nor spelling out working conditions.

"We still have next Tuesday," Gegan commented.

who had insight into the issues of the world — the same issues that confront Christianity even today," Dr. Hoffmann stressed.

Luther A Realist

"Luther was a realist, not a romantic idealist or a pessimist. He may have been pessimistic about man but he was optimistic about God's grace and it is time we go back to the idea that such faith is the heart of the Lutheran movement," the clergyman stressed.

Politics and power play are two other areas Luther did not advocate, "but both are evident in the Lutheran church today and it's time we give the power back to God and concentrate on His forgiveness and love," Dr. Hoffmann said.

Freedom from outside forces was another point Luther believed in and this, too, Lutherans must recapture if they want to walk a common path, the Lutheran Hour speaker said.

Ideas Sensible

"All of these ideas of the man whose name all of us took seem very sensible when we examine them, but if Luther was alive today, he would constantly be bothered by us Lutherans asking him what he really meant and whether we are misinterpreting his real meaning," the minister stated.

If the Lutherans have to question such simple and basic ideas, it is time all of the bodies get together and discuss the basis of the common heritage, Dr. Hoffmann implied.

"For it is written, 'Let us do good unto all men (but) especially unto those who are of the household of faith,'" the speaker concluded.

Out of this came the Lutheran Council in the United States of America (LSCUA), the fourth landmark mentioned by Dr. Hoffmann, which was organized "to discuss things we can do together."

Start Made

"We can't put all our hopes in this, because it is a manmade organization and such organizations come and go, but it is a start," the speaker emphasized. He added that he did not foresee any further mergers among the synods for the present, but that such common endeavors will bring a greater understanding among the various bodies.

"There are so many things we have in common at the base of our religion," he said. "We are all followers of Luther, a man

Higher Fees Enacted for Menasha Bars

Total for All Licenses Raised To $198 Per Year

MENASHA — Tavernkeepers brought along an attorney to put a head on their arguments against higher license fees, but aldermen weren't buying. The increase was adopted Wednesday on a 7-3 vote.

Attorney Daniel Goggin, Neenah, argued that licenses to serve beer and liquor and sell cigarettes in Neenah cost $155, while in Kaukauna beer and liquor licenses cost $125 without there being other fees. Green Bay's fees are $100 for a beer license and the same for liquor licenses, he said.

Goggin argued that Menasha charges $142 for liquor, beer and cigarette licenses, while additional fees for music, skill and amusement devices raise the total cost for bartenders who buy all such permits to $198.

Policing Cost

He called for a "serious attempt" at determining whether the costs of policing Menasha taverns were higher than in the other cities before fees were raised. Similar arguments had been advanced by the tavern owners in previous meetings on the issue.

Ald. Andrew (Bud) DeLeeuw and Raymond Zielinski, both of the First Ward where most of the city's taverns are located, were joined by Sixth Ward Ald. James Miller in opposing the increase. Starting with the licenses that take effect July 1 this year, a liquor license and a beer license will cost $100 each, or $200 per tavern. At present, a beer license costs $75 and a liquor license $65.

Sell Business but Keep Packers Tickets

GREEN BAY — Rights to 40 Green Bay Packers season tickets are specifically exempted in the sale of Olson Transportation Co. to C. W. Transport, Inc., Wisconsin Rapids.

The exemption in the $5 million deal is included in the purchase agreement which the Interstate Commerce Commission has been asked to approve.

Social Security Changes Make More Eligible

One change brought about by the 1967 Amendments to the Social Security Law, is that more people will be eligible for hospital insurance benefits, according to Frank M. Donnick, district manager of the Appleton Social Security Office.

Under the old law, people who reached 65 in 1968, and were not entitled to monthly Social Security or railroad retirement benefits, could not get hospital insurance benefits unless they had six calendar quarters of coverage or about 1½ years of work under Social Security. Now this requirement has been reduced to three calendar quarters, or about nine months of work.

The amount of work needed to qualify for hospital insurance benefits after 1968 increases by three quarters each year. Eventually, for those reaching 65 in future years, the amount of work required for hospital insurance protection will be the same as that required for monthly cash benefits.

However, those qualifying for monthly benefits as a dependent or survivor of an insured worker will not need any work under social security.

Donnick said persons who plan to continue working when they reach 65 should also apply within the three months prior to the month in which they have their 65th birthday. By applying, they will be covered by hospital insurance and can make their decision on voluntary medical insurance coverage. Later, when they retire or have reduced earnings which will permit payment of benefits, monthly checks can be started without delay.

Census Tracting Plan Approved for COG

U. S. Census Bureau officials gave approval Monday for a census tracting program which will provide detailed information of neighborhood units in the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG) communities.

Eugene E. Franchetti, COG executive director, received the approval letter from Robert C. Klove, census bureau's assistant chief for research and development.

Request for the program came in December of 1966, following a two-year study and tracting project by a committee of officials, businessmen and citizens.

Areas Divided
This group, and a similar group from Oshkosh, then not a COG member, divided the area into homogeneous sections of about 4,000 persons and prepared tracting maps with summarized population and housing characteristics, in addition to land use characteristics.

COG communities qualified for this program as a Standard Metropolitan Statistical Area (SMSA) — an urban area with at least one city of 50,000 or more population. Appleton and Oshkosh both meet this requirement.

This relatively long-established census bureau program is not the same as the new block-by-block comprehensive census data project, which also is available to COG communities and is being considered at this time.

Neighborhood Units
These census tracts coincide with a neighborhood unit," Franchetti explained. "Therefore, this will give an accurate view of the overall neighborhood unit."

The tracting project will involve parts of Winnebago, Calumet and Outagamie counties, with individual tracts in Winnebago numbered 1, 2, 3, etc. Outagamie tracts will be numbered, starting with 100, and Calumet, starting with 200.

The census bureau will use the information gathered by the COG and Oshkosh groups to complete the program for the 1970 census. Along with their application, the groups sent maps with the outlined summaries of population, land and housing characteristics to the bureau.

University Assists
Franchetti indicated much of the information was gathered by Dr. Gilbert James, then University of Wisconsin Fox Valley Center sociologist, and his staff. Mrs. Dorothy Stilling, Appleton, and Dr. Milan Vuchich, Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh, headed the groups.

Klove indicated in his letter to Franchetti that these groups had done an "excellent job" in preparing the tracts. About 60 persons were on the COG-directed tracting group.

On the other side, the comprehensive block-by-block census, tabled by COG officials at their February meeting, pro-

1,000 Expected Saturday At Boy Scout Fish-o-Ree

Some 1,000 Valley Council Boy Scouts and their leaders are expected to attend the district-wide Fish-O-Ree Saturday on Little Lake Butte des Morts.

Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Explorers may participate for prizes in the fishing derby. The Fish-O-Ree will start at 10 a.m. on the ice off Third Street in Menasha, and the cost is 25 cents per person for an ice patch and insurance.

The event will include a simulated ice safety rescue by Menasha Police Department divers in wet suits and an explanation of fishing rules and conservation department activities by Warden Dale Morey.

Warming shelters, ice augers, and skimmers, in addition to refreshments, also will be provided. George Dubey, Appleton, will handle the first aid vehicle and ice control.

Water Usable for Recreation Is State's Management Goal

Natural Resources Department Outlines Plans for Governor

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Wisconsin's water management goal is to establish and maintain all waters pure enough for public use and game fish reproduction, Gov. Warren P. Knowles learned recently.
The goals were outlined in a progress report by the new State Department of Natural Resources.
The report indicated the dominant public use of water is for recreation, and the state's goal is pure water for public water supplies, for whole body contact recreation, and game fish and minnow reproduction.
The report was submitted by Lester P. Voigt, secretary of the department which combines all state natural resources services and was created by the legislature in the Kellett Act over considerable furor a year ago.
Voigt noted the union will become fully effective after July 1, but he reported on some of the preliminary work and the goals of his administration. He said the results will be the "economics" that were "implicit" in the Kellett reorganization commission planning.
Voigt emphasized that he realized the importance of a stronger water protection program through the state Division of Resource Development, headed by Freeman Golmer and which is under the central command.
When Wisconsin's water meets the standards of purity sought, they will be maintained, and when water quality falls below such standards, it will be restored, he told Knowles.
In other highlights, the governor was advised that: "Reorganization has consisted a friendly and co-operative venture among the divisions and business involved, the executive office and the department of administration. The plan is to keep it this way."

Basic standards are in the formative stage for air and land pollution control, with the authority of new legislation, but there are definite deadlines for progress set for the next 14 months.
A new state recreation plan has been submitted to the U.S. Bureau of Outdoor Recreation. If approved, it will bring Wisconsin an additional $1.5 million a year in federal aid under the national land and water conservation fund.
With present funding under the state Outdoor Recreation Act Program (ORAP), federal aid and other sources, an additional 17,000 acres of recreational lands can be bought during the next 14 months.
During the next year, Wisconsin forest fire fighting pro-

Wall Street Jobs Show Need for Education

BY SYLVIA PORTER

"Starting salaries for trainees to be Wall Street registered representatives are now running between $7,000 and $11,000 a year. Within 10 years, a trained registered rep can expect to earn between $35,000 and $50,000, and some are earning $100,000 or more within this time."

Porter

"The demand for college graduates who want to become stock brokers is now many times the supply of qualified candidates."

"Attitudes toward women on Wall Street have changed drastically in the past two years, and the chances for advancement are far greater than ever before. One girl who has been working only eight months as a junior securities analyst is now making $10,000 a year."

These are excerpts from a recent talk with three officials of Don Howard Personnel Inc., a leading New York-San Francisco executive recruiting firm for the financial community. The remarks dramatize the statistics which project a tremendous surge in job opportunities on Wall Street for both men and women, young and older job seekers, those with little experience as well as for those with extensive training.

Better Pay Scale

The remarks also dramatize the high and rising pay scales on Wall Street today. Starting salaries for a securities analyst trainee with a master's degree now range from $9,000 to $11,000. An experienced cashier can earn $20,000. These salaries are, in addition to an array of fringe benefits, including a yearly bonus which can run from six to 22 weeks' pay.

Soviet Journal Criticizes Court Sentence System

MOSCOW (AP) — Citing the case of a 17-year-old boy sentenced to two years in prison for trying to steal 22 cents, the Soviet Union's leading literary journal urged an end to judicial "cruelty to those who do not deserve it."

The hapless teen-ager, Mikhail Sapharyan, wanted the money to go to a movie, said Literaturnaya Gazeta (Literary Gazette). His parents, who lost their two other sons in the war, pleaded for mercy but to no avail.

Attorney Arkady Vaksberg argued in the article that maximum sentences are handed down more often than circumstances warrant, mainly because judges fear lenient sentences will be overruled by higher courts. When this happens, the lower court judge gets a reprimand harmful to his career.

Pearson Proposes Surtax, Spending Cut

OTTAWA (AP) — Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson's government is proposing two new tax surcharges, a $75 million spending cut and wage-price restraints to replace the tax legislation which nearly brought down the government last month.

Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp told a news conference the government would propose three per cent surcharges on corporation and personal income taxes.

The new tax package should bring in $440 million additional for 1968-69.

'Back Office' Jobs

For high school graduates, and even for high school dropouts there are literally thousands of job openings in the operations end, or "back offices" of brokerage firms. These jobs range from purchase, sales and dividend clerks to stock record handlers.

Of course, the basic reason for the jump in Wall Street job opportunities is the skyrocketing volume of trading on the major stock exchanges and in the over-the-counter markets. On the New York Stock Exchange alone, 9-12 million share days are now routine vs. the typical 4-5 million share day only three years ago. Today, there are a record 24,000,000 shareowners in publicly-owned U.S. corporations against only 6,500,000 as recently as 1952.

As for job opportunities for women they have expanded because of the Equal Employment Opportunity law, because of the shortages of qualified securities salesmen and analysts, and because the women who have been among the pioneer jobholders on Wall Street have proved their worth so superbly.

Wall Street finally has caught up to the U.S. economy generally. Assuming it is not again smeared by the get-rich-quick mania, it will be a great and growing source of jobs, paychecks, sales and profits.

A Little Late but It's Here

BY TV SCOUT

7-8 (Channels 11-9 — And Debbie M a k e s Six. Debbie Reynolds' first TV special, finally gets on the air after a postponement due to a strike (and you can tell it was postponed because there is a joke about a Washington wedding). The idea of the show is excellent, the execution obviously expensive, but unfortunately the material doesn't measure up. There are segments spotlighting guests. In the first Debbie is entertaining servicemen in Alaska with Jim Nabors getting to sing "Mame" and Bob Hope appearing as a GI. Debbie and Bobby Darin appear as Sonny and Cher-type entertainers who are filled with love until they get off stage. Debbie and Frank Gorshin do Grand Hotel, playing all the roles: Garbo, May West, Betty Davis, Judy Holiday, Claude Rains, Sidney Greenstreet John Barrymore. Bing Crosby and Barry Fitzgerald (Debbie is Barry). Two things spoil this: its length and the fact that the names of the people being impersonated are superimposed on the scene. With Donald O'Connor, she does a song and dance routine. (C)

6:30-7 (Channels 11-9) — Batman has a fairly amusing episode with Ida Lupino as Dr. Cassandra, self-described as a "world famous alchemist, occult science practitioner and all-around evil-doing swinger" and Howard Duff as her husband-assistant. (C)

6:30-7:30 (Channel 5) — Daniel Boone meets an old friend on the trail in an episode. The friend is a former slave now a fur trapper in Canada. He is also a widower, on a trip with his son, and the boy is the man's whole life. Boone takes the youngster to Boonesborough, with the father planning to join them later. (C)

6:30-8 (Channels 2-7) — Cimarron Strip has the kind of story that Gunsmoke does so well. It's about a family, headed by Mark Lenard, that comes from Philadelphia to settle on land in the strip. They witness a powerful rancher dragging two men he thinks are rustlers. Later they find the men hanged. Stuart Whitman knows the rancher is responsible for the lynching, but he can't get the father to agree to testify. (C)

7:30-8:30 (Channel 5) — Ironside has a story that has been done before on other programs, but good acting, writing and direction combine to hold viewer interest anyway. Raymond Burr is giving lectures in criminology at a college. He is asked about a perfect crime. A letter has come to the dean saying someone will prove a perfect crime is possible. (C)

8-8:30 (Channels 11-9) — Ruth Buzzi is featured on That Girl when love comes to her in the form of an incredible hulk (Albert Salmi) who loves to eat and who thinks fun is jogging around the park with his lady love at his heels, and playfully poking her on the chin. (C)

8:30-9 (Channel 5) — Dragnet 1968, tackles hippies and in a powerful climactic scene Jack Webb and Harry Morgan state a few truths to these dirty-faced kids. It's well worth waiting for as the two policemen pick out what is good in hippies and tell them how they can really help if they want to. (C)

9-10 (Channel 5) — George Gobel solves the mystery of "The Ode to Billy Joe" with a surprise guest appearing to explain everything during The Dean Martin Show. Other guests Peggy Lee, in a solo spot and doing a "doodling" song with Dean, Guy Marks, and Eddie Foy Jr., a delight in "I'm Clarence Fitzgerald." The finale is a funny Spike Jones-flavored medley of songs. (C)

Linguistics Experiment A Success

KAUKAUNA — Members of the St. Aloysius School board of education voted Tuesday night to expand the linguistics program, presently being tried on an experimental basis, to a full-time program for all grades in the 1968-69 school year.

Reporting on the linguistics program, Sister Paula explained its advantages and results determined in the experimental project.

The board voted to retain grades two through eight for the coming year and referred a pay schedule for lay teachers back to the finance committee for study and recommendation at the next meeting.

Board members learned that all but one member of the present faculty plans to return next year. The board will seek an upper elementary teacher who would be assigned a grade.

The Rev. S. A. Borusky, parish pastor, gave a preliminary report on a parish survey conducted the past few months, but indicated no conclusions had yet been reached as a result of the survey.

Evening of 'Specials' Needed Staying Power

In Great Variety, Each Show Excellent
 In Its Own Way, Same Producer for All

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY
 AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The strong-eyed television viewer with stamina and staying power had a really special evening on Wednesday night. ABC had four extracurricular programs in a row—a wildly mixed bag, and each, in its own way, excellent.

(Editor's Note: Only three of the four specials were seen in this area. Mia Farrow interviewed by Ryan O'Neal, her former colleague in "Peyton Place," was pre-empted by Channel 11 for "the Professionals," last night on the subject of surfing. The Farrow interview will be shown at 10:20 p.m. Sunday on WLUK-TV, Channel 11.)

Without so much as flipping the dial, there were the sight of sea anemones, which look like flowers but are not, trapping and devouring a passing fish; a Monte Carlo in all its glamor and beauty was spread before the public and finally, there was an illustrated history on conditions in Germany that led Hitler to power and to World War II.

First program on the schedule was the second in the Jacques Cousteau series about undersea exploration and experimentation. The oceanographer and his crew of divers and photographers this time explored the colorful and strange marine life of a coral atoll off the coast of India. The photography was marvelous and the glimpses of the ocean's flora and fauna exciting and exotic.

"Monte Carlo ... C'est la Rose" was an artful and imaginative combination of guided tour, variety show and fashion show—our tour guide, Princess Grace, wore a different Dior costume in each of her many appearances.

First of Three

The monumental task of adapting William L. Shirer's "The Rise and Fall of the Third Reich"—the book ran to almost 1,500 pages—was begun with an hour program, the first of three to be broadcast later this week. Researchers have done a thorough and imaginative job of rounding up appropriate material to illustrate the march of events—old news reel film, still photographs, cartoons, and have also interviewed some of Hitler's intimates and followers.

The first show told of Hitler's troubled early life, and then went into greater detail on his emergence in the Germany of the 1920s when the economy, political structure and morale were weak and disturbed. The narrative carried the Nazi chronology up to 1933 when Hitler became chancellor of Germany and the Third Reich was born.

It should be noted that all of the special programs on the network were produced by an outside packager, David Wolper, and it was an impressive showcase.

Antiriot Report A Best Seller

NEW YORK (AP) — The paperback edition of President Johnson's riot commission report is selling at a rate of more than 100,000 copies a day, says its publisher.

A spokesman for Bantam Books said Wednesday mayors, government agencies and civic organizations have been telephoning the firm with bulk orders. He said the first edition of 300,000 copies was virtually exhausted and a new print order of 100,000 was placed Tuesday. The book published Monday retails at $1.25.

Two Nursing Courses Planned At Fox Valley UW Center

Two courses for registered professional nurses in hospitals and nursing homes will be offered this spring at the University of Wisconsin Fox Valley Center.

"Nursing Care Plans for Better Nursing Care" will meet April 17, while a class on "The Nursing Team" will convene May 1. Both courses are sponsored by UW Center's nursing department, and will meet from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Goals of the nursing care class are to assist participants in developing the ability to identify nursing needs, in terms of long- and short-term goals, and to help nurses appreciate the need for nursing care plans.

Instructor will be Mrs. Barbara Bauer, R.N., consultant in the Division of Mental Hygiene, State Department of Health and Social Services.

Team Nursing
 The nursing team course aims at presenting the philosophy and objectives of team nursing, at helping nurses gain a better understanding of the skills involved in team leadership and at providing opportunities for discussion of problem areas and adaptations of the team approach to existing situations and facilities.

Instructor will be Mrs. Thora Kron, R.N., former instructor at St. Luke Hospital School of Nursing, Duluth, Minn.

Enrollment for each course is limited to 40. Advance registration is required and may be made by contacting the Fox Valley Center office.

Joke Could Bring Seat in Congress

KOKOMO, Ind. (AP) — James L. Stout's name was filed as a joke for the Republican nomination for Indiana's 5th District congressional seat. Now he's seriously considering it.

When Stout's name appeared on a list of candidates who filed with the secretary of state, he denied he had filed. Then he learned that a friend, William R. McCain, had entered his name as revenge for a practical joke Stout had played on McCain last fall.

"It's a little intriguing," Stout said of his candidacy, "and I could just win, although I'm not sure I want the job."

Stout is a real estate broker. The 5th District seat is now held by veteran Rep. Richard L. Roubush, a Republican seeking his fifth consecutive term.

Council Questions New School Needs

thinking of asking for more money in the not too distant future to build a second elementary school on the southside.

Ald. Glenn W. Thompson (13th) was the lone alderman to speak against acting on the resolution the same night it came before the council.

"I think we should take a good look at this resolution through normal procedural channels before adopting it," Thompson said. He insisted the matter needed study.

On Record

However, Tews and several other aldermen said the purpose of the resolution was to get a study — direct from the board of education — and put the board on record as to its future school construction and spending plans.

After the resolution was adopted on a 19-0 vote, Mayor George Buckley referred it to the council's school advisory committee to take up with the board of education.

Ald. Norman E. Beyer (20th), committee chairman, told a reporter he was for the resolution "right now" but didn't know how he would think about it later.

"The city's bonded indebtedness has reached an all-time high and new school construction costs have been a major contributing factor to this debt," the resolution said.

It calls for the board of education to inform the council by Sept. 1 of its plans for additional new school construction.

Reopening Planned

And the resolution also requests the board to explain to what extent it has considered reactivation of Washington School and continued operation of McKinley and Jackson schools, assuming the city would appropriate money to put the buildings in acceptable condition.

The council has received reports that the school board, which originally closed Washington School, now plans to reopen it. And it was also informed by the board that Jackson and McKinley schools would be closed.

However, the recent request of a private group to buy the old McKinley school property — to be closed this fall when the new McKinley school is opened on the Mielke site — has apparently raised some questions.

Planner Disagrees

For more than a year City Planner Walter Rasmussen has disagreed with school board population projections and he maintains that a second grade school will be needed on the south side in the vicinity of McKinley school to serve the so-called interior city.

The board of education said just recently that it has no further need for the old McKinley school and there are no plans for building a new school in that area in the future.

Aldermen have expressed the opinion it would be wise for the city not to sell the McKinley site if it is needed for park or school purposes, pointing out that purchase of a new site in the future would be much costlier to the city.

"I feel far too many people are forgetting the meaning of the word 'conservatism,'" Tews commented.

Older Buildings

He said proper planning and education went hand-in-hand and wanted to know if the older buildings could be put in good shape without having to extend the city's bonding more than necessary.

"Maybe some of these buildings are too far gone," Tews said. "I don't know and I think the council should find out."

With reference to the proposal to sell the old McKinley school site, Tews declared, "I think we had better bide time and not burn our bridges behind us."

Ald. Mark Catlin (7th) felt the Tews' resolution was in order and merely asked for a study and report back to the council. However, Catlin said it should have gone a step further and set a deadline, which resulted in the September date being picked.

"I would say this is one of the soundest proposals to come before the council in some time," said Ald. Walter Kalata (2nd). He said the city should get the best mileage it can from all municipal facilities.

No Direct Answer

Ald. Arthur Hoolihan (11th), in whose ward the old McKinley School is located, said as far as he was concerned the board of education had not given a direct answer about future need for the site.

"The board never did say it

Lake Pollution Conferees Air Suggestions

Midwest States Resume Work on Michigan Problem

CHICAGO (AP)—Officials of four states and the federal government resumed a conference today on a cooperative plan to curb pollution in Lake Michigan.

A working paper of recommendations was prepared for the consideration of representatives of Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois and Indiana.

Among other things, it suggested:

Upgraded waste treatment by communities by December, 1972.

A ban on new sewers of the combined type — they carry sewage and storm runoff water in the same pipes—with the aim of halting pollution from such systems by July 1977.

New Facilities

Construction of new or additional treatment facilities by some plants with completion in the industrial complex in the Chicago area and northwestern Indiana by December of this year and elsewhere by December 1972.

Advanced waste treatment at the Great Lakes Naval Training Center and at Ft. Sheridan north of Chicago.

A request to the Coast Guard to step up aerial patrols of the lake to watch for pollution.

Arrangements by the four states to contribute funds to hire trawlers to remove alewives from the lake. The fish, dying off by the thousands, have littered beaches.

The conferees met for six days last month.

whether the school could be repaired and not in good condition," Hoolihan said. "People in the ward are asking this question and we should get some answers."

That other residents also have been asking questions about school closings was noted by Ald. Clifford Radder (16th), who commented, "I am happy to see this resolution come in. We have an older school in the ward and the people want to know if it is to be fixed up or a new one built."

Thompson charged the council was "railroading the resolution through". However, he voted for it.

James Asmuth, president, who gave the awards; Anita Brown, and William Brown, both of Menasha. The Browns, brother and sister, have been employed 34 and 33 years, respectively. Placques also went to Clemens J. Ciske, 42 years; Joseph Bunda, 40 years; and Chester Olson, 38 years.

Asks Governor's Veto Penal Farm Purchase Protested at Oneida

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Irate Town of Oneida officials and leaders, bearing a petition with 580 signatures, demanded Wednesday that Gov. Warren P. Knowles stop plans for locating a new farm in the town which would be operated by inmates of the state reformatory at Green Bay.

The State Department of Health and Social Services intends to purchase the land for developing a new farm.

Led by Assemblyman William Rogers, R-Kaukauna, the eight-man delegation told Carl Geisler, aide to the governor, the reformatory can conduct its necessary farming at the existing farm in the town, nine miles from the proposed location, or enlarge that operation by buying adjoining land which, they said, is for sale.

Erode Tax Base

They complained the state purchase of another substantial tract would erode the local tax base, devalue neighboring farm properties, and create a community hazard because of the probable escape of some reformatory inmates from the minimum security work camps.

Geisler told the protesting town spokesmen that he would ask the governor to arrange a hearing for them at the next meeting of the state building commission, which approved the proposal of the state division of corrections for the land purchase several weeks ago. The action could be rescinded. Such transactions require the signature of the governor before they are effective.

Among the objectors were Norman Austin, route 2, West De Pere, Oneida Town chairman, and Oscar H. Archquette, of Oneida, vice chairman of the Oneida Indian tribal council who said he spoke for 6,000 of his people who are worried about the project.

Other Objectors

Others were Al Vanden Heuvel of route 2, West De Pere; Peter J. Gerrits, route 1, West

Smoke Fills House

Appleton firemen were summoned to 927 W. Lawrence St. about 7 p.m. Wednesday when a plugged chimney caused the house to fill with smoke. Firemen said the house is owned by Margaret L. Dresang, 1102 W. Lawrence St.

De Pere; Orville Appleton, route 1, Seymour; Clarence Schlamm, route 1, Seymour; William H. Metoxen, Oneida, and Eugene Smith, of route 1, Seymour.

Sanger G. Powers, chief of the state division of corrections, has explained the new farm project is intended to allow abandonment of farm operations in the highly urbanized Town of Allouez near Green Bay, and that much of the land at the existing Oneida farm is not suitable for the production of the forage crops required for a dairying program. The land is low-lying and wet, he said. That is why the Oneida farm is used to produce beef animals, he said.

He also has explained that reformatory workers would not live at the new dairy farm, but transported there for their daily work assignments. The only construction would be that required for the dairy animals.

College Avenue Rezoning Gets Council Okay

Move Overrides Plan Commission Recommendation

Ignoring a recommendation of the city plan commission, the Appleton City Council Wednesday night favored rezoning of property on the southwest corner of College Avenue and Summit Street.

The commission had taken the position that a request of R. J. Wettengel to rezone the site from two-family to commercial should be denied.

It warned that any extension of the College Avenue business district to the west would be contrary to sound planning and was contrary to the city's comprehensive plan.

Ald. Al Sioegbauer (4th), in whose ward the property is located, favored the rezoning, claiming it would add to the tax base because the property owner wanted to put up a $40,000 to $50,000 building.

Little Discussion

There was little discussion on the issue as the council voted 16-4 to reverse the plan commission recommendation.

The council also:

— Received a letter from the state which said approval has now been given to the Mielke plat which originally had been rejected and underwent revision.

— Took a hands-off attitude of the question of whether or not to hold a municipal employee union representation election, citing the Wisconsin Employment Relations Commission (WERC) has assumed jurisdiction in the matter.

— Told Police Chief Earl O. Wolff to get informal quotations for painting street signs and posts, and invited civic organizations to submit proposals as a fund raising project.

— Increased the salary of Welfare Director Merton Ehrlicke from $752 a month to $805, and also approved a pay boost for Personnel Director Jerome Rusch from $770 to $823 a month.

— Received a request from Percy Menning that N. Drew Street lying north of Northland Avenue be improved extended and opened to the public, citing it was his fourth request in as many years.

the wheels in motion on this program."

Rasmussen said he would personally file the application with HUD this week.

"And if it should get approval the first time around, Appleton could qualify as the first city in the United States ever to have that happen," Rasmussen commented.

He said considerable time and effort went into preparing the workable program and HUD application, praising the efforts of the citizens' group and department heads.

house when two motorcycle gang members grabbed her and threw her down on a mattress on the floor, she testified.

When questioned by Laurie Anderson, defense attorney, the woman said that following the assault, she went to a Marion restaurant with some gang members, and while they were there a disturbance broke out and police were called.

When police arrived, she said she wanted to say something to them about the assault but was afraid because one gang member had a gun in his pocket.

When she attempted to talk to the police, she was hurried out of the restaurant by one of the gang members, she testified.

Bisenius is free on a $5,000 bond. After Judge McHenry ruled there was sufficient evidence that a crime may have been committed, Bisenius was bound over to county court for trial. Johnson requested the bond be raised to $10,000 or $15,000 because of alleged threats to the woman and her mother.

Johnson said the woman had been threatened by gang members and told not to testify at any of the court proceedings. Bisenius said that he had not made any threats. The motion to raise the bond was denied by Judge McHenry.

Clintonville Police Chief James Beggs was the only other witness to testify, and his testimony concerned whether the alleged crime was committed in Waupaca County.

Kaukauna Utility Approves Hookup

State, Federal Okay Expected
Soon on Three-System Link

KAUKAUNA — The Electric and Water Utility Commission Wednesday approved a proposal which would link electrical systems of Kaukauna, Menasha and the Wisconsin-Michigan Power Co.

The proposal would require approval of the Wisconsin Public Service Commission (PSC) and the Federal Power Commission, (FPC), but no difficulty is anticipated in receiving authorization, according to Norbert Rhinerson, utility manager.

The local commission voted to withdraw a previous application to the PSC which called for an interconnect of the Kaukauna-Menasha utility systems.

Other applications to the PSC approved by the Commission include installation of a $1,750,000 gas turbine in Kaukauna and construction of interconnection lines and associated facilities between Menasha and Kaukauna at an estimated cost of $1,160,000.

Cost Distribution
Menasha would pay $950,000 of the line cost and Kaukauna would pay $210,000. The connect would permit Kaukauna to purchase surplus power being generated at the Menasha plant.

Menasha would realize a financial return on its generating capacity and Kaukauna would benefit by having an available supply and by being able to delay major investments in plants and equipment to meet increasing demands.

Wisconsin-Michigan would be linked with the Kaukauna lines, a source from which the city already purchases power, giving both Kaukauna and Menasha additional power supply if needed. The proposal would be a 10-year agreement between the three utilities.

The new plan would reduce length of transmission lines between the two cities from 13.5 to 10.5 miles and the capacity of the lines would be from 34.5 to 138 kilovolts.

Long-Range Benefit

Rhinerson told utility commissioners the proposed interconnect with the three utilities would be of long-range benefit to the city and insure adequate power supply to meet increasing needs. Addition of steam generating equipment to the Kaukauna system could be delayed by the utility interconnect.

He felt the new proposal should move through the PSC and FPC without difficulty after mutual agreement of all parties involved was received. It was pointed out, Kaukauna could cut its expansion costs from more than $4 million to about $1,750,000.

In other action, three bids were received for a half-ton pickup truck. Low bids of $1,383 from Gustman Chevrolet Sales was accepted. High bid was $1,684.

21 Per Cent of Kimberly Electors Vote in Primary

KIMBERLY — The judicial primary election attracted little interest Tuesday as only 21 per cent of the registered voters went to the polls, according to clerk.

Some voters were turned away because they had not been registered. Persons over 21 who have been residents of the state for six months and a resident of the community for 10 days prior to an election are eligible to vote.

Registration can be made at the clerk's office. Women who have married since registering are also required to re-register and the clerk must be notified of any change in address. Mrs. Lochschmidt will register voters Saturday morning for those desiring to vote in the April election. Those planning to vote in April must register by March 20.

Duels Pulaski Quint Friday Night at Green Bay

Kimberly Seeks Title in Strong Sectional Tournament

Post-Crescent Sports Editor

Kimberly, this weekend, seeks to reach the summit meeting (the exclusive 8-team finals in Madison) of state public high school basketball for the first time since 1959.

To attain that peak, the Papermakers must negotiate two precipitous climbs. The first barrier is represented by Pulaski's Red Raiders (19-3), whom the Papermakers (17-4) battle at 7 p.m. Friday in the Brown County Arena.

If Kimberly reaches the first plateau of the Green Bay sectional tournament, it will try to conclude the ascent to the top at the expense of the winner of Friday's confrontation between Sturgeon Bay (20-2) and Suring (18-4).

Saturday's sectional title game (at about 8:30 p.m.) will be preceded by a consolation contest between Friday's losers.

Best Record

The Green Bay sectional field has the best composite record of any of the eight in the state.

It is the only tourney in which none of the four entrants has lost more than four games.

The latest Kimberly team to qualify for the state tournament was the 1959 unit — one of the greatest in Papermaker history. The starters were Jack Lamers, Darrell Jansen, Don Hearden, Tom Rooyakkers and Dave Minton.

This is the first Kimberly team to reach the sectional level since the Lee Levknecht-paced Papermakers qualified four years ago.

The Papermakers took their lumps last season (finishing in the Mid-Eastern Conference's second division for one of the few times ever) while a number of sophomore regulars were gaining experience. New Coach Jack Wippich came on the scene this season to put it all together and turn the Papermakers into a formidable aggregation.

The current Papermaker momentum (keyed by a 61-48 win over M-E champion Neenah) has produced five straight victories. The string started against New London, then continued against Neenah in an M-E revenge contest and against three tourney foes — Kaukauna (62-52), Shiocton (67-47) and Appleton West (66-55).

The defensively-strong, well-balanced Papermakers will clash head-on with Pulaski and the hottest scorer on the 1968 Wisconsin tourney trail — Tom Banaszynski. The 6-foot-4 senior, who averaged 24 points a game in winning the Northeastern Wisconsin Conference scoring title, has clicked for an amazing tournament average of 35.3.

Stage Two Rallies

The Fred Kestly-coached Red Raiders whipped Oconto Falls (81-63) and Bonduel (78-59) in district play before engineering a pair of notable comebacks in last week's Clintonville Regional. Pulaski came off a 17-point halftime deficit to outscore Marinette, 52-32, in the second half for an 81-78 victory and shook off a 9-point deficit (32-23) against Clintonville to register an 82-66 victory.

Jeff Wildenberg, 6-3 center, is averaging 14.3 points for the Papermakers this season. He is also the team's most productive rebounder. Guard Don Hagany, 5-10 junior, averages 11.5 per game and is a slick playmaker.

Jeff VandenHeuvel, the only senior in the Kimberly starting lineup, ranks third in scoring (8.8 average) and second in rebounding. Juniors Bill Lamers and Wayne Swokowski round out the starting quintet. Lamers, who missed four games earlier in the season and played as a reserve much of the time, has come on strong to pace the Papermakers in tournament scoring. Lamers is averaging 15.7 for the three tourney games. Swokowski is a strong defensive player and has been averaging about eight points a game for the season.

For tourney play, Hagany ranks second to Lamers, with a 12.7 average, and Wildenberg has a 12.0 point rate.

The 1967-8 Papermakers, though not averse to fast-breaking, mostly employ a deliberate style of offense and are averaging 61.6 points per game. Kimberly, which exerts considerable pressure on the opposing team's attack, has one of the best defensive records in the Valley — having allowed only 51.9 points a game.

Kimberly's defenders limited high-scoring Tom Hintz, of Appleton West, to three field goal attempts in the first half of the regional title game. By the time Hintz broke loose to score at his accustomed pace in the second half, Kimberly was well out in front.

The Papermakers will need the same type of stringent measures against Tom Banaszynski's scoring antics Friday night. The big pivot-man who was second in NEW rebounding, in addition to pacing the scoring, is essentially a short-range gunner — with jump shots and rebound flips.

Beat Clippers

Larry Banaszynski, Tom's cousin, is second in Pulaski scoring, with 10.5 average. He scored 19 points in one tourney game. The other Raider starters are 6-0 Gary Gajewski, 6-0 Norb Berna and Doug Rehn.

Pulaski finished as co-runner-up to Sturgeon Bay in the NEW race but handed the Clippers one of their two losses. The Red Raiders averaged 66.8 per game and allowed 58.6.

Sturgeon Bay, which is coached by former Hortonville athlete Bruce Schulz, is a team with great defensive pride — like Kimberly. The Clippers yielded an average of only 50.3 per game in NEW play and scored at the rate of 73.9.

The Clippers' key tourney win to date was over favored Green Bay West in the regional opener. Sturgeon Bay trailed by nine points going into the final quarter but outdid the Wildcats, 19-8, to win, 55-33. The winning basket was a 30-foot heave by Mark Ostrand at the buzzer. In the regional finals, the Clippers took Green Bay East apart, 96-95.

The Clippers, whose only two losses were by one point (to Pulaski) and by two points (to Algoma), boast the sectional's best height. In addition to Ostrand, a 6-2 junior, they have Mike Propson (6-8), Gary Rabach (6-5), Jeff Ehrhardt (6-2) and John Geitner (6-0). Ostrand, the team's floor general, is an all-conference player, while Geitner and Propson were named second team all-NEW.

Geitner was the team's top scorer in league play, with a 14.4 average, while Ostrand was the leading rebounder, with an average of 12.

Suring finished second to Wausaukee in the Marinette and Oconto conference but beat the champion Eagles, 66-58, in the regional tourney finals after having lost twice to them in the regular season.

Wausaukee was trying to become the only repeater in the Green Bay Sectional. Last year's field in the Brown County Arena consisted of Kaukauna, Green Bay West, Mishicot and Wausaukee.

Clark 'Completely Satisfied' With Season

1967-8 Hawks Termed Most Improved

Post-Crescent Sports Editor

Coach Gene (Torchy) Clark has labeled the 1967-8 Xavier High School basketball team "the most improved club we have ever had."

Speaking at the winter sports awards banquet at Reetz' Wednesday night, Clark said, "I wish we had beaten Messmer" (in the state tourney opener). "But," he added, "Messmer was a senior club (nine on the squad, four of whom were starters), and (junior-dominated) Xavier might actually have been a year away."

Guest speaker Marty Crowe, coach of Marinette Central Catholic, said, "I felt Xavier was below par against Messmer... I feel no one would have beaten Xavier on one of its good nights."

Clark, a perfectionist who has gained a reputation of "never being quite satisfied" with his team or with a season, made a move to change that image by saying, "I'm completely satisfied right now." He elaborated by saying the Hawks (23-2) had reached the four goals that are striven for each season: 1. A good record; 2. Winning the conference title; 3. Winning the regional title; and 4. Doing well in the state tournament.

Clark said, "My obligation is that the kids get everything out of the game they're supposed to get... and I feel they've become better men and better athletes."

Bob Fullarton, 6-8 junior center, won the team's rebounding trophy, and Tom Thomson, 6-4 junior forward, was awarded a runnerup trophy.

Larry Lieben was named "most valuable" gymnast, while John Tillman and Pete Penning shared the "coach's award."

Coach Tom Heller gave letters to "Lieben, Tillman, Pennings,

Tim Higgins, Dan Laux, Jack Siddall, Joe Schwallier, Jim Hertel, Dave Jensen, Don Schindhelm, Bob Coffey and Tom Dohr. Pete Schwallier and Jim Samsa were also introduced.

Crowe, a frequent and popular Fox Cities area speaker, lauded the attitude of Xavier athletes on and off the field of play and related a number of anecdotes to underscore points made on athletic values.

Swayda Leads After First Round

Marie Ridley Raps 609 National Set

Achieves Firsts for Own Career And Four-for-Fun League

Marie Ridley accounted for a notable pair of firsts Wednesday afternoon in the Four-For-Fun Bowling League, at Hahn's Lanes.

In smashing a 609 series, Mrs. Ridley posted the first national honor count of her career and and first 600-or-better score in the 5-year history of the league. She started off with a 226 blast, then posted a 158 line and finished with a 225 flourish.

Mrs. Ridley, whose previous high was a 550, has been a to a 27-21 lead with 8:22 left in the first half.

However, the Muskies rallied to score 11 points in a row to get back on top at 32-27. Lakeland retained a 4-point advantage at the half, 50-46.

In the second half, two by Lallensack brought the Titans within one point at 51-50, but outside shooting combined with Stewart's work on the boards gave the Muskies a 60-54 lead with 14:57 to go.

But then Dale Race hit a jumper, and a tip-in by Hayek, and a layup by Schwartz tied it at 13:40. The score was tied three more times, and neither club went ahead by more than three points.

The regulation game ended, with Oshkosh guard Tom Witasek taking a long shot from mid-court at the buzzer that hit high off the board. The Titans had gotten the ball with eight seconds showing.

Leading the winners was Schwartz with 29 points, followed by Hayek with 27, Lallensack with 23. Also in double figures were Race, Bruce Miller, and Malone with 13, 12, and 10 respectively.

per, 6-4, Tom Ashworth, 6-1, Dale Ahrens, 6-0, and Pete Fischer, 5-11.

For the Rockets, who, through the winter, have been hampered by illness and injuries, each week of competition finds them in better shape physically.

The five starters are 6-8 Dale Magedanz, 6-3 Dan Jankowski, 5-11 Lee Olson, 5-10 Dan Blank and 5-10 Mark Eastwood with 6-3 Tom Kopitzke and 5-10 Ned Kramer as No. 1 reserves.

Averages 16 Points

Magedanz is averaging 16 points per game, Jankowski 15.9, Blank 10.1, Olson 8.4, Kopitzke 6.2, Eastwood 6.2 and Kramer 5.4. The five regulars and Kopitzke all hit in the double figures in the 87-71 regional championship, victory over Fond du Lac.

The Mid-Eastern Conference champions have been a strong second half team all year and capped their efforts by scoring 51 points against Fond du Lac in the third and fourth quarters. In 12 of their 21 games, they've bettered 20 points in the final segment.

Friday's game will be the fourth of the season against a FRVC member, against whom they'll be competing full time next fall. They defeated Oshkosh and Appleton West in addition to Fond du Lac.

Surprise Winner

Beaver Dam was a surprise 74-72 winner over Randolph in the finals of its regional meet. The Beavers posted a 6-8 conference mark to finish third in the 5-team Southern Division of the Little Ten Conference.

High scorers include Mike Geniesse, Don Patrick and Tom Daniels.

Manitowoc, which swept to the valley crown with 16 straight victories and is the only undefeated team left in the state, played one of its poorest games in the regional finals, finally overcoming Mishicot, 53-43.

Mishicot only trailed by three points when its scoring star, 6-6 Pete Holmes, fouled out with 4:30 left to play.

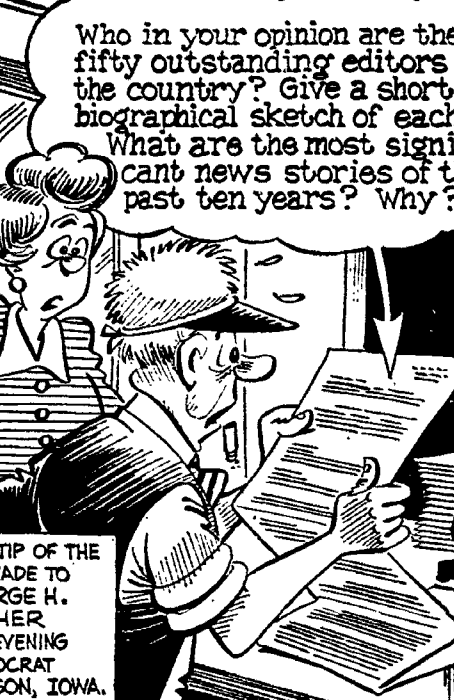

The Shipbuilders have excellent height and scoring balance in Pete Hansen (6-6), Tom Haag (6-4), Vic Trastek (6-1), Pat Walsh (6-5) and Mike Muchowski (5-1) and fine guards in Bill Sepnaski (5-11) Tich Rosinsky (5-9) and Rocky Jiroch (6-0).

Battle Developing For Third Place in Eastern Division

The battle for fourth place in the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division rapidly is turning into a battle for third place.

Cincinnati, Detroit and Baltimore have been staging a furious battle for the final division playoff spot — the top four teams make the playoffs — but now they all are creeping up on third-place New York.

The Knicks were beaten by Boston Wednesday night for the second straight day, this time losing 103-91. Cincinnati, which beat Philadelphia 108-106, now is only 2½ games behind the Knicks. Detroit, a 140-118 victor over San Diego, is just 3½ games back.

In the only other NBA game Wednesday night, St. Louis downed Los Angeles 112-96.

In the American Basketball Association, Denver edged Minnesota 102-100.

The Knicks' point total was the same low one they had in losing to the Celtics the night before. The Celtics overcame a slow start and a 20-9 New York lead behind John Havlicek's 25 points and Bailey Howell's 24. Cazzie Russell led the Knicks with 24.

Williams, Hosket Repeat

Franklin Unanimous Pick for All-Big 10

CHICAGO (AP) — Sam Williams of Iowa and Bill Hosket of Ohio State are the only holdovers on the 1968 All-Big Ten basketball team named by The Associated Press.

Reflecting the close title race, five schools won berths on the first team. Joining Williams and Hosket, both seniors, are sophomore Rick Mount of Purdue, senior Joe Franklin of Wisconsin and junior Dave Scholz of Illinois.

Franklin, like the others, among the Big Ten's seven top scorers, was the only unanimous choice of the AP's selectors. Scoring champion Mount missed one first-team vote, as did the rugged Hosket.

Youth Movement

Four second-team spots went to sophomores, underlining the youthful surge of conference basketball. They included Chad Calabria of Iowa; Dave Sorenson, Ohio State; Dale Kelley, Northwestern, and Rudy Tamjanovich, Michigan.

Joining this foursome was senior Tom Kondla of Minnesota, last season's scoring champion.

The slump of defending co-champions Michigan State and Indiana was shown by the drop to honorable mention status of the Spartans' Lee Lafayette, on the 1967 second team, and the Hoosiers' Butch Joyner, a 1967-first-team choice.

The first team ranges in heights from Williams at 6-3 to Scholz at 6-8.

FIRST TEAM

Rick Mount, Purdue, 6-4, sophomore, Lebanon, Ind.; Sam Williams, Iowa, 6-3, senior, Detroit; Bill Hosket, Ohio State 6-7 senior, Dayton, Ohio; Dave Scholz, Illinois, 6-8, junior, Decatur, Ill., and Joe Franklin, Wisconsin, 6-4, senior, Madison, Wis.

Maple Leafs Win Round 1 Of Big Trade

3 New Players
Score in Victory;
Black Hawks Bow

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Round One on the National Hockey League's Trade of the Decade belongs to the Toronto Maple Leafs.

The Leafs, who sent Frank Mahovlich to Detroit in an eight-player deal Monday, got instant dividends on the trade when each of the three players acquired from the Wings scored in a 7-2 Toronto romp over Philadelphia Wednesday night.

Mahovlich meanwhile, was scoreless and on the ice for three New York goals as the streaking Rangers ripped the Red Wings 6-1.

In other games, Boston rallied for a 5-3 victory over Chicago and climbed past the Black Hawks into third place, St. Louis topped Pittsburgh 4-2 and Montreal blanked Oakland 2-0.

Norm Ullman, Paul Henderson and Floyd Smith combined for three goals and five points among them in Toronto's victory over the expansionist Flyers.

The work of the newcomers overshadowed two goals by Bob Pulford, who, like Mahovlich, has long been rumored as trade bait by the Leafs.

Less Successful
Mahovlich had a less successful debut with Detroit against the Rangers. He and linemates Alex Delvecchio and Gordie Howe were on the ice for half of New York's six goals.

Sid Abel, the Red Wings' manager-coach, was satisfied with the work of the Big M and his two other new men, Gary Unger and Pete Stelmowski.

"I thought the three fellows we got played better than the rest of our team," said Abel. Mahovlich, asked how it felt to be playing with his new teammates, said simply, "It felt different."

Stan Mikita took over the NHL scoring lead with a goal and two assists but Boston wiped out an early 3-0 Chicago lead and moved past the slumping Black Hawks.

Ex-Hawk Ken Hodge started the comeback with his 20th goal of the year and then four third-period goals by Glen Sather, John McKenzie, Phil Esposito and Johnny Bucyk gave Boston the victory.

Average Slips To 29.8, but Mount Champ

Franklin, Kondla In Third-Place Tie With 24.0 Marks

CHICAGO (AP) — Rick Mount, Purdue's slick sophomore, had the Big Ten basketball scoring title locked up today with a 29.8-point average and a chance to fatten it a bit in Saturday's finale at Indiana.

Although Mount slipped under his earlier 30-plus pace, being shackled to 10 points by Wisconsin last Saturday, he holds better than a four-point edge over runner-up Sam Williams of Iowa.

Williams, who will be trying to lead the Hawkeyes to a clear-cut title against invading Michigan in Saturday's closing conference round, has a 13-game average of 25.3.

Official league statistics disclosed that Minnesota's Tom Kondla, dethroned scoring champion, climbed from fifth to a third-place tie with Wisconsin's Joe Franklin, each with 24.0. The campaign has ended for Kondla, whose wobbly start ruined his title defense.

Dave Scholz of Illinois dropped from third to fifth with 23.5. Other leaders: Ohio State's Bill Hosket, his season completed, sixth with 21.3; Michigan's trio of Rudy Tomjanovich, seventh with 19.7, Jim Pitts, eighth with 19.2, and Dennis Stewart, ninth with 18.8; and Purdue's Herman Gilliam, 10th with 17.5.

Mount seems destined to finish with a better championship average than Kondla's winning 28.3 last season.

Mount-led Purdue has a chance to emerge the top conference scoring team, taking the league high average of 87.8 against Indiana Saturday. Runner-up Ohio State finished its season with 86.9.

Illinois, closing at Michigan State, still ranks the top defensive club with an average yield of 66.8, compared with the next best mark of 71.6 by Iowa which already has cinched a title tie and can win the crown outright by dumping Michigan.

Northwestern has the best rebound average, 46.2, well ahead of Ohio State's 42.9, but the Buckeyes have the better rebound recovery percentage, 52.8 against 52.5.

Car Skids Off Road, Hits Pole in Kaukauna

KAUKAUNA — Extensive damage resulted and Gerald Gerard, 19, 409 Eden Ave., Kaukauna was cited for driving too fast for conditions when the car he was driving struck and broke off a utility pole about 2:15 a.m. Wednesday.

Gerard told police he was traveling east on Plank Road and, as he passed another vehicle, his auto went out of control on the slippery roads, left the roadway and struck the pole.

The major league exhibition baseball season opens today with the New York Yankees opposing the Washington Senators at Pompano Beach, Fla.

Five more games are listed for Friday with the remainder of the 20 big league clubs swinging into action on Saturday. The regular season opens April 8 in both the National and American Leagues.

Mel Stottlemyre of the Yankees and Bill Denney of the Senators were named as the starting pitchers for the opening game of the exhibition season. Stottlemyre had a 15-15 record last year while Denney was 1-7 with the New York Mets and 3-3 with Jacksonville in 1967.

Slugger Mickey Mantle also is expected to be in the Yankee lineup, but like most of the other starters probably will play only a few innings.

Starting pitchers for some of the five games Friday also were named.

Iowa Sports Require Over $1 Million in Annual Receipts

CHICAGO (AP) — University of Iowa Athletic director Forest Evashevski said Wednesday that "to keep our heads above water," the athletic department needs in excess of $1 million annually in gate receipts.

Evashevski told the Big Ten directors that he estimated similar conditions prevailed at other schools in the conference.

Discussing the high cost of intercollegiate athletics, Evashevski said the athletic budget at Iowa has tripled since he became Hawkeye football coach in 1952. But, he added, that the department has remained in the black despite the fact that costs have outpaced increased patronage.

During the conference, Evashevski, Dick Larkin, Ohio State athletic director, and William Reed, Big Ten commissioner are expected to agree on a neutral site in the event Iowa and Ohio State tie for the basketball championship.

Iowa can win an undisputed title by defeating Michigan in Iowa City Saturday night.

The Big Ten basketball championship will start its NCAA tournament play at the University of Kentucky.

A 14-4 margin in the third period enabled The Shack to pull away from the Hot Dogs. Galt flipped in 12 points to top the victors, and Klapper's nine markers led the losers. ## Exhibition Baseball Season Opens

Chicago-San Francisco game at Scottsdale, Ariz.

On Saturday Ken Johnson will open for Atlanta against Los Angeles at West Palm Beach. There was good news for Cincinnati and Boston fans from the training camps Wednesday.

Pitcher Jim Maloney and outfielder Vada Pinson of the Reds signed their contracts. Jim Lonborg of the Red Sox.

Spitball Rule to be Tested During Exhibition Season

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — The first game was played, will be on probation during the spring training season that begins today.

As most clubs open their Grapefruit and Cactus League exhibition schedules over the weekend, umpires have been instructed to enforce the new rule rigidly. It stipulates that a pitcher touching his pitching hand to his mouth is warned once and ejected from the game on a second offense.

"This is the place to test the rule," American League President Joe Cronin said Wednesday after a meeting with his umpires. "If any modification of the rule is necessary, then it should become apparent here during spring training."

Cal Hubbard, supervisor of the league's umpires and one of those critical of the rule, said he had told umpires to be strict in enforcing the rule.

Those who oppose the rule say that it will cause all kinds of enforcement problems.

Falcons Sign Humphrey

Rookie Expected To be Starting Defensive End

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Claude Humphrey, Little All-America end for Tennessee State and the Atlanta Falcons' top draft choice, signed Wednesday to play for the National Football League club.

"We very much expect him to be starting at one of the defensive end positions next fall," Atlanta Coach Norb Hecker said. Owner Rankin Smith and General Manager Frank Wall also were on hand for signing ceremonies, along with Tennessee State Coach John Merritt.

"The most important thing for me is to play," said Humphrey, 255-pound, 6-foot-5 father of a baby girl. "I want to make the team. I don't want to sit on the bench, because I never have in high school or college."

Humphrey, who played in the North - South and Senior Bowl all-star games, was considered one of the top defensive linemen in college last fall. He was rated a top pass-rusher, which is what the Falcons need.

Terms of the contract were not announced, but Humphrey reportedly signed for about $50,000.

LeRoy Andersen Will Coach at 'Point' High

STEVENS POINT (AP) — LeRoy Andersen, veteran high school and college coach, was appointed head football coach and athletic director today at Stevens Point High School.

Andersen, 44, had a 72 percent winning record in 18 years of coaching at Wilmet, Sheboygan Falls, Kohler, and Sheboygan South high schools and Lakeland College. He left coaching at the end of the 1966 season to operate a sporting goods business in Sheboygan.

Andersen, a native of Kenosha, was a Texas University star and holds degrees from Northwestern University and the University of Wisconsin. He replaces Fran Roman, who resigned last fall.

Navy Pays for Ship's Damage to Highway

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — The Navy has come up with $6,922 for damage one of its ships did at Washington Highway. The destroyer tender Sperry rammed the highway, which runs along the Columbia River, and removed a 20-foot chunk of road last June.

Stranded Ice Fisherman Refuses to be Rescued

PORT CLINTON, Ohio (AP) — The Coast Guard rescued four fishermen from an ice floe about 1,000 yards off shore in Lake Erie Wednesday, but another man decided to stay and fish.

"We can't make him come off," said one officer. "Those fish sure must have been hitting pretty good. As far as we know, he's still out there."

There is no substitute for quality - and there is some try to believe that. It is a substitute for quality, but this is not true. When a house is built with quality all the way through, it is not competing in the selling market of today. Quality is one thing and price is another. This home was not built to be competitive at a quick selling price house; it will stand up under the most rigid inspection. It is a 2 story Colonial home with 4 bedrooms, 2 Baths, built-in kitchen, fireplace in Living Room, formal Dining Room and each and every requirement of the family looking for a home. # When Boss Totes Clubs, Your Image Is Shining

BY HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — How is your image doing? Is it fading or in focus?
In a world that judges you by status symbols, it is pre-eminent necessary that you keep your image sharp.
How can one be sure about this? Well, there are little ways. For example, you don't have to worry too much about your image if—
On your last birthday the boys at the office got together and gave you a solid gold key to the executive washroom.
The firm owes so much of its success to your presence that the chairman offers to carry your clubs when you go golfing together.
The board of governors at your country club doesn't vote a doubtful character into membership without first making a quiet phone call to you.
The college you almost flunked out of years ago asks if it is all right with you if they name a new men's dormitory in your honor.
The snobbier college that once wouldn't even accept you as a student invites you to make a commencement address in return for an honorary degree.
"DBS"—doctor of business science.
Three Secretaries
You look so prosperous that a bum on the street automatically hits you up for a dollar instead of a dime.
Your responsibilities are so great that you have three secretaries now—one to do the work and the other two to give you something to look at when you are bored with looking out the window.
Naturally, your administrative duties are so onerous that—much as you'd like to be there—you find it simply impossible to go to the monthly P-T-A meetings at your daughter's school. So you pay your butler overtime to attend them on one of his nights off—because you feel duty bound to see that the family is represented in some manner.
If your personal checking account is overdrawn, the president of the bank doesn't even bother to call it to your attention unless he happens to sit next to you in the club car on your way home.
Two Gardeners
The flowers are coming up so nicely in your garden that you hire an Irish assistant for your Italian gardener. After all, it's too much to ask one immigrant to prop up all those lovely tulips. It's a two-immigrant job.
When you pause to congratulate the minister on the fine sermon he has preached, he takes your extended hand in both of his hands as if it were a treasured thing to be coated with bronze or kept in amber forever.
The guy in your high school graduating class who was voted most likely to succeed is now—thanks to the fact you put in a kind word for him—working steady at last as a night watchman for your firm.
When the cigarette girl comes by your favorite table at your luncheon club—the one with the best view in town—you don't select a cigar. You take a hand-

Miners Still Lost, May Be All Right

Rescuers Descend Shaft, Find Signs Men Are Alive

CALUMET, La. (AP) — Two rescue experts rode a creaky, makeshift elevator 1,200 feet down a murky shaft early today to an area where 21 salt miners had been trapped more than 30 hours. They found a fair supply of oxygen and heard a motor running.

"There is some reason to be encouraged, some to be discouraged," said F. Clayton Tonnemaker, a vice president of Cargill, Inc., owners of the coastal salt mine. "The men did not see anyone, saw no lights, heard no (human) sounds."

Tonnemaker, a former Green Bay Packer linebacker, said the fact the two troubleshooters heard a diesel motor running was encouraging since it could not run unattended more than 30 hours — and the men had been isolated longer than that.

"This leads us to believe that someone started the diesel after the fire," he said.

The rescue specialists said they saw a "red glow" in the distance.

"The red glow means there is a small fire in the area of the mine's fan," Tonnemaker said. "It is a small fire, not much flame. When the next two men go down, if there is no problem, they'll get it out in about 10 minutes."

Fire meant oxygen was in the area. A Cargill spokesman said there was a "pretty fair" supply of oxygen at the bottom of the shaft, enough to sustain life.

Trip Delayed

Another exploratory trip down the fire-blackened mine shaft was delayed while workmen placed a protective cover over the small elevator. On the first trip, one man was slightly injured when a chunk of salt fell, striking his shoulder.

Bullhorns were to be used on return trips in hopes of communicating with the isolated men who could be anywhere in the massive, winding caverns of the mine, perhaps as far away as one mile from the base of the shaft.

The searchers carried their own oxygen supply and wore masks. They found hints of deadly carbon monoxide present in the shaft, but one said it registered only "one-tenth of 1 per cent."

"From what we hear, things may not be too bad," said William L. Meadows of Sturges, Ky., head of one of two special six-man rescue teams flown in for the search.

The two men finally went down shortly before dawn after workmen overcame complications with the newly fabricated "man cage." The elevator affair snagged in the shaft some 300 feet down during a test drop.

Begin Descent

Welders made modifications to the 5-by-5 platform which is gripped by a triangular framework of iron pipe. Edward Holman and Dillard Holmes, on loan from Kentucky coal mine companies, began the slow, 40-minute journey downward.

"Evidence of the fire is more intense as we go down," was the report at the 520-foot level.

At 690 feet: "There are some burned power cables."

At 758 feet: "It's cold. No heat."

At 793 feet: "The timber is in good shape."

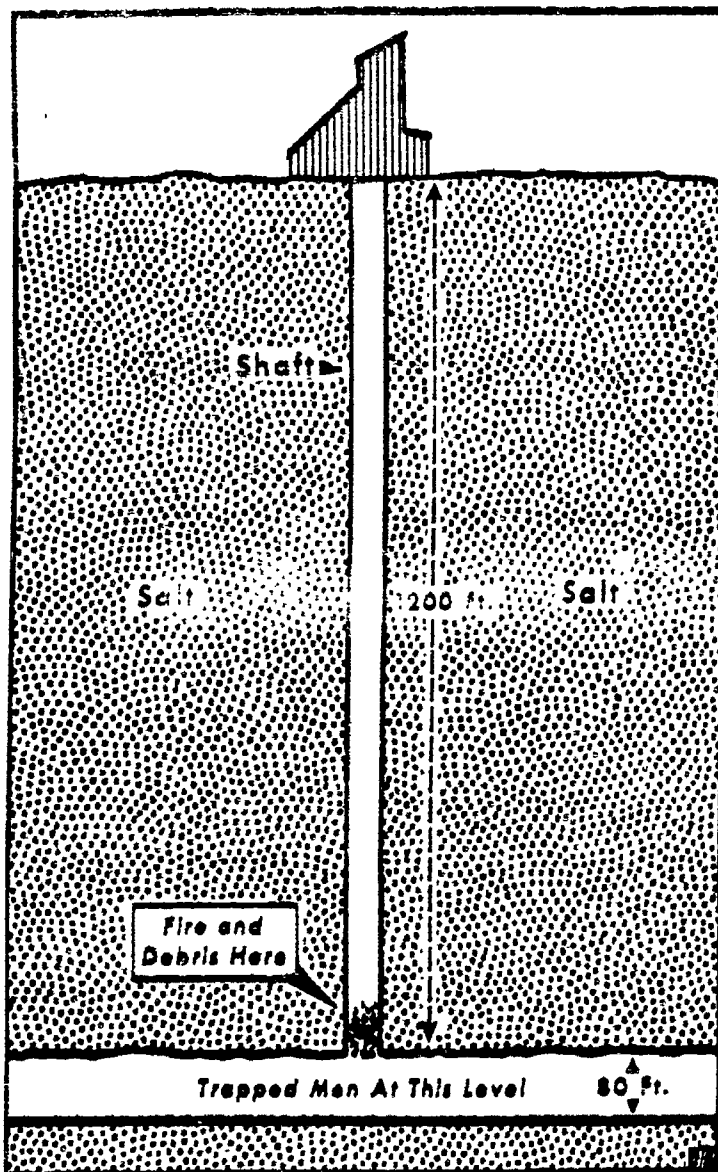

This report brought grins to the faces of weary workmen on the timber-lined shaft as a result of the fire.

Nine Marines Are Missing In Icy Potomac

Canoe Capsizes During Crossing; Searchers Hopeful

QUANTICO, Va. (AP) — Military officials said today there is a "good chance" the nine enlisted men missing after their training canoe capsized Wednesday in the icy Potomac River may still be alive.

The 25-foot canvas canoe apparently dumped the men into the chilling gray water about 4:30 p.m.

The men, eight Marines and a Navy sailor, were reported to be expert swimmers and all had passed a series of survival tests. Five of them were Vietnam veterans.

The canoe and three life preservers were recovered two hours after the accident a few miles downstream from the Quantico Marine Base but an all night search involving more than 100 men and helicopters and boats failed to locate any bodies.

Asked whether officials have any indication the men were still alive, Lt. Col. Herbert Harkey, in charge of search operations, told newsmen: "Yes, we do."

"Going to Spot Them" "We're hoping they are huddling down some where trying to keep warm and we hope we're going to spot them," Harkey said.

Exactly what happened to upset the canoe was a mystery. No one saw the incident, which apparently took place about mid-way in the 2.2 mile-wide expanse of the Potomac which winds between Virginia and Maryland.

They had been told to paddle across the Potomac and then return to the Marine base. A fisherman saw them in midstream heading back and the canoe must have capsized shortly after, a spokesman said. There were no witnesses, he added.

"Quite frankly with the way these people were qualified it is impossible to guess what could have happened that close to shore that they couldn't have made it to shore," Harkey said.

The numbing cold of the Potomac was a factor in Wednesday's incident. Harkey said the water was about 36 degrees and by merely remaining still the men could have survived only 15 minutes or so.

But by swimming, he said, their increased circulation would allow the men to survive up to two hours—"which is sufficient for these people to get ashore."

The men, 18 to 33 years of age, were wearing athletic sweatsuits, the spokesman said, and carried no special survival equipment.

Apology Sent Cambodians For Incidents

U. S. Note Admits Action 'Without Hostile Intent'

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — The United States has apologized for two violations of Cambodian territory by American troops in South Vietnam, the official Cambodian news agency said today.

In a note delivered to the Cambodian Foreign Ministry by the Australian Embassy, the United States said it regretted the incidents on Jan. 18 at Peam Montea and on Feb. 2 at Phnom Den.

"The U.S. government reiterates its regret that in the course of action American personnel did without hostile intent cross into Cambodian territory," the note said about the Peam Montea violation, the agency reported.

At Phnom Den, the American note said, "Viet Cong troops retreated into the interior of Cambodia." The agency said "all investigation categorically contradicts American accusations" on this point.

Violated Waters

The Cambodian government also accused an American warship of violating its territorial waters, but "the U.S. government rejected the protest, concluding that it was based on erroneous information," the Cambodian agency said.

"We are thus invited to believe that the ship in question was a phantom boat, because as the Pueblo affair has shown us, the American Navy scrupulously respects the limits of territorial waters of other nations," the report added. The date and circumstances of the alleged naval intrusion were not given.

An official source said a new incident had been reported at a Cambodian border post. Last Monday, the source said, a helicopter dropped six American soldiers 1,500 yards inside Cambodia and in an ensuing firefight between provincial guards and the U.S. soldiers, a Cambodian guard was seriously wounded.

Froehlich, Knowles Still Don't Agree

MADISON (AP) — Gov. Warren P. Knowles says Wisconsin has done just about everything it can to make its early presidential primary one of the nation's most important.

"It's as meaningful as we could make it," said Knowles. The governor's comment came in response to questions about Assembly Speaker Harold Froehlich's statements that the primary might have to be changed.

Froehlich criticized the fact that New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and Sen. Robert Kennedy, D-N.Y., will not be on the April 2 ballot even though they "are No. 2 in their parties."

A member of the bipartisan nominating committee, Froehlich voted last month to have both men listed. The committee refused to place Kennedy's name on the ballot and Rockefeller filed a disclaimer and his name was removed.

"There's a question in my mind whether we should allow anyone to file a disclaimer," Froehlich said in his Appleton law office Wednesday.

"If a man's not a candidate he doesn't have to campaign and it will show up in the vote."

Knowles said he disagreed with the idea that candidates not be allowed to withdraw. "I don't believe you can stop a man from declining to run," the governor said.

Killed in Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon announced Wednesday that Army Sgt. Robert E. Osutki, Milwaukee, has been killed in action in Vietnam.

Twiggy Hopping Mad Codswallop

LONDON (AP) — Twiggy is hopping mad about a report in the Moscow Literary Gazette calling her "a capitalist tool" and the wrong kind of image for modern youth.

"It is a load of old codswallop," she said today.

(Codswallop is an untranslatable Cockney expression, roughly equivalent to baloney or nonsense.)

"I loathe anything like the beatniks and hippies, and am certainly no sort of model for them."

"What I know about Communists sounds just terrible," she snapped. "I've just come back from a tour of Germany and I do know about the Berlin wall and censorship and lack of freedom.

"It's not only a lot of nonsense what that paper said about me but they are being very unfair. In fact, I have a lot of supporters in the East, and I get a lot of fan mail from behind the Iron Curtain. Maybe that's what is bothering them."

Twiggy admits "I am not the world's greatest expert on politics, but I certainly know what happened at Hiroshima was the first atomic bomb and I think war is terrible. They ought to let the leaders fight duels to settle things, since they are the ones who want the fighting."

U.S. War Toll 542 in Week

Navy Pilots Attack Targets In Hanoi, Haiphong Regions

SAIGON (AP) — A near-record 542 Americans were killed in combat in South Vietnam last week, only one less than the highest weekly toll of the war, the U.S. Command announced today.

The toll continued this week, with 24 Americans killed in ground fighting Wednesday and another 48 presumed dead in the crash of a C123 transport shot down five miles from the U.S. Marine combat base at Khe Sanh. But the U.S. Command said its troops killed at least 158 Communists in the clashes Wednesday.

The Viet Cong's bombardment of towns and military posts in South Vietnam tapered off today, with attacks by mortars and rockets on only three points reported.

Coordinated Raids

In the air war, U.S. Navy pilots made coordinated night attacks Wednesday on six targets in the Hanoi-Haiphong area, including a battery plant seven miles south of Hanoi and a transshipment point hit several times before.

Hanoi claimed three U.S. planes were shot down, but there was no report of any losses from the U.S. Command.

The command's weekly report of casualties said 2,191 Americans were wounded last week, a relatively high number although well below the previous week's 2,675. The U.S. death toll was exceeded only by that of the week of Feb. 11-17, at the height of the Communists' lunar new year offensive.

The Americans said 3,849 Communist troops were killed last week, while South Vietnamese headquarters put enemy casualties at 5,681 killed and 827 captured. There was no explanation for the discrepancy.

7-Year Totals

The report brought U.S. casualties in seven years and two months of war in Vietnam to a total of 19,251 killed and 117,335 wounded. Another 1,137 Americans are listed as missing or captured.

Ground fighting was reported Wednesday in the vicinity of Con Thien, just below the demilitarized zone; at Ban Me Thuot, in the central highlands; and along the central lowlands in the north, below Da Nang.

U.S. Marines at Con Thien reported killing 81 North Vietnamese three miles northeast of their base and another 10 two miles west of the base. Seventeen Leathernecks were killed and 35 wounded in the two clashes.

Two helicopters flew over the wreckage of the C123 shot down Wednesday with 48 men aboard and reported no sign of life. Marine officers at Khe Sanh said no attempt would be made to recover the bodies because of the thousands of North Vietnamese troops massed close around the wreck.

In the attacks on North Vietnam Wednesday night, U.S. Navy all-weather intruders from the carriers Enterprise and Kitty Hawk flew low through overcasts to attack:

—The Van Dien battery plant seven miles south of the center of Hanoi. The plant reportedly accounts for about 50 per cent of North Vietnam's battery production. It was last attacked on May 21, nearly a year ago.

—An 11-acre supply area containing 38 warehouses, and wharves on the Red River 1.8 miles southeast of the center of Hanoi. It has been bombed several times recently.

—The often-hit Uong Bi electric power plant 15 miles north-northeast of Haiphong.

—The Cam Pha military barracks 44 miles east-northeast of Haiphong.

—The Hai Duong rail yard 23 miles west-northwest of Haiphong.

—The Phu Ly railroad yard 35 miles south of Hanoi.

Reds Want Him Back

Czech General Defects to West

VIENNA (AP) — Czechoslovakia announced today it is demanding the extradition of a Czech general who has defected to the United States.

CTK, the official Czechoslovak News Agency, reported: "The Czechoslovak Foreign Ministry announced that on the basis of a valid agreement on mutual extradition of criminals between Czechoslovakia and the United States, steps are being taken through the Czechoslovak Embassy in Washington to secure the extradition of Jan Sejna."

"Maj. Gen. Jan Sejna is wanted in Czechoslovakia for offenses concerning property and misuse of authority of a public official," it said.

Sejna's defection is expected to have far-reaching repercussions in Czechoslovakia.

It may lead to the resignation of the ministers of defense and the interior. High-ranking military officers could also lose their positions.

The committee of Communists in the army held a plenary session to discuss the Sejna case and demanded that "both the minister of defense and of the interior should take a public attitude on the case."

They said: "Those whom it concerns should make self-critical conclusions after they have quit their posts."

It remained to be seen what effect the Sejna case will have on Czechoslovak President Antonin Novotny, the former party chief.

A Prague newspaper has linked him to Sejna. Without naming him, the journal Prace said it was "thinking of the man who placed such confidence in Sejna. How he impressed on us all the need for vigilance

States, the Soviet Union and Britain offered today to take joint action under United Nations Security Council auspices to defend any nation threatened with nuclear attack after it signs the proposed treaty to halt the spread of nuclear weapons.

The three nuclear powers put a joint resolution before the 17-nation disarmament committee for submission to the Security Council for approval. It also gives the nuclear powers a basis for protective action even before the 15-nation council acts.

This was spelled out in the final paragraph of the resolution, which said: "The Security Council reaffirms in particular the inherent right, recognized under Article 51 of the United Nations charter, of individual and collective self-defense if an armed attack occurs against a member of the United Nations, until the Security Council has taken measures necessary to maintain international peace and security."

Only Red China

This was designed to get around objections that, since four of the five nuclear powers have a veto in the Security Council, the guarantee offers protection only against attack by Communist China. The other nuclear powers are France, which rejects any restrictions on nuclear development and boycotts the Geneva conference, the United States, the Soviet Union and Britain.

If the resolution goes through, U.S. delegate William C. Foster said, "The United States will declare that any state which commits aggression accompanied by the use of nuclear weapons or which threatens such aggression must be aware that its actions are to be countered effectively by measures to be taken in accordance with the United Nations charter to suppress the aggression or remove the threat of aggression."

Foster said the resolution will establish "a firm political, moral and legal basis for assuring

New London Council Rejects Improvement Plan for County Road

Absence of Culverts Could Result In Serious Floods Says Alderman

NEW LONDON — City council members expressed qualified opposition Wednesday to a road improvement project on County Trunk X between the city and Northport and to a related wildlife improvement program.

The council passed a motion by Ald. Matthew Burton (5th) which put the council on record as opposed to the road construction without proper culverts being installed between the Wolf River and a marsh opposite the roadway.

Council members were told by Burton that much had been dug up and was blocking a channel under the present roadway. The alderman warned that the blocking of the waterway could threaten the city with flood waters greater than the past.

Of the impending wildlife development Burton said, "We certainly don't need another Horicon marsh here."

Waupaca County is straightening out the winding roadway near the Big Eddy which has been the site of numerous accidents in the past, several of which have resulted in the loss of life.

In other business the council approved the appointment of Orville Johnson to a five-year term on the New London Housing Authority and the appointment of Emil Gehrke to fill out the term of Dan Stoffel.

Members were told that the city's application for state assistance on the sewage plant addition had been approved by the department of natural resources and the city would receive $3,272 on May 1 of each year for the next 15 years.

Tractor Burns; Driver Escapes

WAUPACA — Fire caused extensive damage to a tractor at the Waupaca city dump Wednesday.

The $20,000 tractor was purchased approximately 18 months ago for use at the dump. Authorities said it was insured. Waupaca firemen were called to the scene to extinguish the blaze.

Oneida Residents Oppose New Reformatory Farm Site

Rogers Leads Delegation Asking Knowles to Intervene in Plans

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Irate Town of Oneida officials and leaders, bearing a petition with 580 signatures, demanded Wednesday that Gov. Warren P. Knowles stop plans for locating a new farm in the town which would be operated by inmates of the state reformatory at Green Bay.

The State Department of Health and Social Services intends to purchase the land for developing a new farm.

Led by Assemblyman William Rogers, R-Kaukauna, the eight-man delegation told Carl Geisler, aide to the governor, the reformatory can conduct its necessary farming at the existing farm in the town, nine miles from the proposed location, or enlarge that operation by buying adjoining land which, they said, is for sale.

Erode Tax Base

They complained the state purchase of another substantial tract would erode the local tax base, devalue neighboring farm properties, and create a community hazard because of the probable escape of some reformatory inmates from the minimum security work camps.

Geisler told the protesting town spokesmen that he would ask the governor to arrange a hearing for them at the next meeting of the state building commission, which approved the proposal of the state division of corrections for the land purchase several weeks ago. The action could be rescinded. Such transactions require the signature of the governor before they are effective.

Among the objectors were Norman Austin, route 2, West De Pere, Oneida Town chairman, and Oscar H. Archiquette, of Oneida, vice chairman of the Oneida Indian tribal council who said he spoke for 6,000 of his people who are worried about the project.

Other Objectors

Others were Al Vanden Heuvel of route 2, West De Pere; Peter J. Gerrits, route 1, West De Pere; Orville Appleton, route 1, Seymour; Clarence Schlimm, route 1, Seymour; William H. Metoxen, Oneida; and Eugene Smith, of route 1, Seymour.

Sanger G. Powers, chief of the state division of corrections, has explained the new farm project is intended to allow abandonment of farm operations in the highly urbanized Town of Allouez near Green Bay, and that much of the land at the existing Oneida farm is not suitable for the production of the forage crops required for a dairying program. The land is low-lying and wet, he said. That is why the Oneida farm is used to produce beef animals, he said.

He also has explained that reformatory workers would not live at the new dairy farm, but transported there for their daily work assignments. The only construction would be that required for the dairy animals.

Clintonville Okays $165,000 for Clinic

Facilities for 10 Doctors, Dentists

CLINTONVILLE — A resolution was adopted by the city council Tuesday night to issue general obligation bonds in the amount of $165,000 for the purpose of defraying the cost of a medical clinic building and facilities in connection with the hospital.

The motion to adopt the resolution, which was approved unanimously by the council, was made by Ald. Ed Wanta, chairman of the finance committee, and seconded by Ald. James Born.

Development of a medical clinic was discussed at a special council meeting last week.

It was felt the present clinic, which is adjacent to the Clintonville Community Hospital, would be the most desirable location and that the clinic could be enlarged to accommodate a combination of 10 doctors and dentists.

The clinic presently contains 2,250 square feet and the proposed addition would increase the size to 5,550 square feet.

The Association of Commerce supported the council action.

Ald. Wanta reported that architects are presently working on other projects for the hospital.

R. J. Platte, hospital administrator, reported that clearance has been given on the Behling Estate, which left $300,000 to the hospital, and it is expected that projects will be started this year.

Marion Mothers Hear Discussion On Sex Education

MARION — "Sex Education in the Schools" was the topic of a panel discussion at a recent Mothers Club meeting.

Richard Bennett was the moderator. Panel members Kathy Lauer, the Rev. Leonard Domke and Marvin Hintz.

It was generally agreed that there is a need for sex education, but the question was how to implement it into the schools.

The large group of mothers attending learned the complexities of the subject and showed a great deal of interest in the open discussion that followed.

It was noted that a misconception existed on just what sex education involves. The panel agreed it should start in the home with a good moral relationship.

Mrs. Wallace Oelke was elected vice president and Mrs. Robert Eggleson was elected treasurer.

Land for Planned Shopping Center Parking Approved at Clintonville

City to Pay $50,000 to Develop Facility; Council Authorizes Bridge Study for Area

CLINTONVILLE — The city council Tuesday night unanimously agreed to purchase a 130 by 160 foot strip of business district property for $50,000 to be developed as a municipal parking lot near a proposed shopping plaza.

The center would be north of the Pigeon River, west of S. Main Street, South of 12th Street and east of property owned by Clintonville Motors, Inc.

The land is on the corner of 12th and Main streets. The agreement stipulates that the developers must construct about 21,000 square feet of commercial shopping center.

The council authorized Waupaca County to install test pilings for a proposed bridge between the development site and city-owned parking lot on the opposite side of the river. Information gained from the tests would determine the cost of the proposed bridge. The pilings would become part of the bridge footings.

David Burns, a Waupaca developer, is cooperating with Carl Sengstock, Appleton Realtor, in the project. Burns indicated the bridge was necessary to facilitate traffic flow and control in the area.

Mayor Frank Sinkewicz said the proposed shopping area has a present assessed valuation of $127,000 and that it was reasonable to assume the future valuation would double or triple and result in a net gain for city taxpayers.

Increased Valuation

He said the city would similarly share in other revitalization projects where the city would gain from the increased valuation.

The city's present parking area would make 200 parking stalls available and 46 stalls in the proposed shopping center also would be available to present businesses in the vicinity.

The Clintonville Association of Commerce has backed the move and requested inclusion of a movie theater in the center. Burns told the council the theater could be included.

Available Buildings, Sites Reported

Clintonville Unveils Promotion Plans

CLINTONVILLE — Plans for gathering detailed information on all available vacant buildings and sites which could be used for retail and industrial purposes were reported Tuesday to the Association of Commerce board of directors.

Richard Kuepper, industrial committee chairman, indicated the plans were prepared that morning as he outlined the efforts of his committee.

Basil Arvey, city public works director, submitted a map designed particularly for industrial development at the Clintonville Municipal Airport. This map will be used to establish bill boards at the airport and on highways, besides in the proposed industrial brochure to be printed with detailed information of industrial development possibilities in the area.

Dean Burton, a director, and Earl Moldenhauer, association secretary, were designated by the board to represent Clintonville at the sports show at Milwaukee on Clintonville Day, March 22. The Clintonville brochure will be distributed each day of the week-long show at the arena.

The board also discussed it would be advisable to have the regional Wisconsin dairy queen contest in Clintonville in May, because of the time limit, but it decided to consider hosting this event in 1969.

Robert Gericke, president, reported further correspondence with an industrial firm considering Clintonville for a new plant, but he said definite action will be delayed until the spring.

The secretary reported that 97 membership renewals have been received in the association's membership drive. The drive is not completed, and at this point, is about $1,000 short of the 1968 goal.

Asks Federal Grant

Clintonville to Study Housing for Elderly

CLINTONVILLE — Two resolutions pertaining to low-rental housing for the elderly were adopted by the city council Tuesday.

One authorized the housing authority to apply for a preliminary federal grant to undertake a study and the other sealed a cooperative agreement between the city and its housing authority.

Aldermen learned of the need for low-cost housing for the elderly, as Mayor Frank Sinkewicz explained that 15 percent of the population in Clintonville and Waupaca County is over 65 years of age. This means that of the city's 5,000 people 750 persons are in this age bracket.

Proposed would be 60 units to not only help provide low-rent housing but also help eliminate sub-standard housing.

$9,000 Grant
The first resolution authorized, the housing authority to apply for $9,000 in federal monies to cover preliminary work in making a study, surveys and plans for the 60-unit project. The sites for the units have not been determined.

The cooperation agreement with the housing authority stipulates the city will furnish the units with public services and facilities and will vacate streets, roads and alleys to allow the development.

Mayor Sinkewicz emphasized the need for low-rent housing in the city, and said this is not intended to take the place of private developers' projects.

The city's housing authority, has been certified by the secretary of state and authorized to act as a corporation.

Sufficient Evidence

Bisenius is free on a $5,000 bond. After Judge McHenry ruled there was sufficient evidence that a crime may have been committed, Bisenius was bound over to county court for trial. Johnson requested the bond be raised to $10,000 or $15,000 because of alleged threats to the woman and her mother.

Johnson said the woman had been threatened by gang members and told not to testify at any of the court proceedings. Bisenius said that he had not made any threats. The motion to raise the bond was denied by Judge McHenry.

Clintonville Police Chief James Beggs was the only other witness to testify, and his testimony concerned whether the alleged crime was committed in Waupaca County.

Welfare Director Wants More Manpower

Hunt Support Payment Shirkers

Additional administrative help to crack down on support payers who have failed to maintain their payments was requested of the Outagamie County Board's Executive Committee Tuesday by Alfred Eggert, county director of social services.

Eggert told the committee he would "like to see another $20,000 invested in administration to save the county $50,000 to $75,000 elsewhere." He added that "it doesn't make much sense to have public assistance pick up the tab when others are able to pay."

No formal action was taken by the executive committee, but a meeting will be set up with the judge who handles most of the support cases and with County Corporation Counsel A. W. Ponath to see what steps can be taken to bring about better compliance with court orders on support payments.

Eggert said a brief study of support cases on welfare records show that only one-third of those ordered by the courts are actually complying with the support orders. "I believe the other two-thirds should be brought into court," Eggert said.

Not Punitive

"I am not being punitive," the welfare director added, "but only placing responsibility where it belongs. The people responsible should pay their just share."

Eggert cited the department's success in reducing county costs in the various medical assistance categories by careful investigation of each case and said he believed the same could be done in the case of support payments. However, it would take more manpower.

In a reversal of previous action, the executive committee will recommend to the county board that the pay for sheriff's deputies be raised to $2.50 per hour.

The Deputy Sheriff's Association had requested that amount at budget time last fall but was turned down with a $2.25 figure being approved.

$2.50 Justified

Supv. Sylvester Esler, county board chairman, said they have had several meetings with the group and he now feels the $2.50 figure is justified.

Supv. Patrick Mares, Appleton, said he still had doubts because many of the full-time county employees start at less than $2.50 per hour.

The $2.50 figure only applies to the deputy sheriffs when they are called out for work by the county and not when they are employed by private operators.

Hiring of the deputy county surveyor to work with Frank Charlesworth in making the detailed township maps for abstract use also was recommended by the committee.

Charlesworth, who resigned as surveyor, was recently hired by the county as coordinator of public services to administer

The new state water laws in the county.

CLINTONVILLE — Rules were suspended and an ordinance was adopted by the city council Tuesday night renaming its court system the Municipal Justice Court to comply with state statutes. It was formerly called the Municipal Justice of the Peace court.

The new rate will be $1.25 per hour for the first eight hours and $1.88 per hour for additional time after eight hours, with the chairman of the board to receive 10 cents an hour additional pay. Possible industrial development at the airport which covers 640 acres was discussed.

There would be 246 acres available for such development. Arvey, director of public works, showed a drawing he made outlining the possible areas for industrial use and giving other pertinent information regarding the airport. He had met earlier Tuesday with the industrial committee of the Association of Commerce.

The city dump is presently located at the airport and the board of public works is to bring in a recommended possible relocation.

Prices are to be obtained on a lighted sign at the airport telling travelers that the city has an area near the airport for industrial development. This was referred to the airport commission for a recommendation.

Drvnness Increases Danger of Fires

MADISON (AP) — No snow and a dry ground cover has brought on 154 fires in the first two months of this year in southern Wisconsin and caused an extremely high fire potential in the northern area.

The state's ability to fight fires at this time is not adequate, Neil Le May, director of the Bureau of Forest Protection, warned today.

The early fire hazard comes at a time when the regular seasonal manpower buildup in the Division of Conservation leaves fire crews shorthanded.

In addition, deep frost makes plowing of firebreaks virtually impossible, and loose sand and dirt is not available for fire fighters to shovel onto flames.

A sample airport operator's ordinance was referred to the airport and ordinance committees for their recommendation to the council.

Upon recommendation of the police and fire commission, the council approved the purchase of a camera for $49.95, the purchase of 10 protective helmets at $19.25 each, and the purchase of 10 night sticks at $3.75 each for the police department; and to advertise for bids for furnishing 600 feet of one and one-half inch single jacket hose for the fire department.

Purchase Approved

Council approved the recommendation of the board of public works to accept the low bid of Clintonville Lumber and Supply Co. in the amount of $798 for three automatic door openers for the fire station.

The matter of a trailer court was referred to the planning commission and ordinance committee for study.

Discussion was held on the Odd Fellows Hall, its possible purchase and repairs needed, as well as the renting of a portion of the Hedtke building for the Monday afternoon session for retardates. The finance committee and board of public works were not prepared to make a recommendation at this meeting.
